

Tidewater Mensa Chapter provides meeting of the minds

By Cathy LeCompte
Sun Editor

An organization called Mensa was begun in 1945 by two lawyers who had high aspirations. They wanted to get a group of intellectuals together to discuss attaining world peace.

That organization is alive and well and operating in the Tidewater area, but with less lofty goals in mind. President of the Tidewater Mensa Chapter, Carol McCann, says they are more of a social group.

"It's more of a forum for intellectuals," said McCann. "We get together and discuss things on a variety of subjects."

The Tidewater Club has over 200 members and McCann would like to see that figure increase to 2,000. There are 50,000 Mensans nationwide.

Mensa has only one requirement for membership—the applicant must score better than 98 percent of the general population on a standardized I.Q. test. McCann says many people are eligible and don't realize it.

"Your SAT scores can make you eligible if you don't want to take one of the tests we offer," McCann said. Tests are given by Mensa twice a month in Hampton and Norfolk. Mensa accepts a number of standardized or intelligence tests to meet the criteria like the California Test of Mental Maturity, the Cattell Culture Fair Test, the Navy GCT or the National Teachers Exam.

"...they picture a bunch of people sitting around discussing nuclear fission or something. But it's not that way." —Carol McCann, president of Tidewater Mensa.

"Our only requirement is that you be in the top 2 percent in I.Q.," McCann said.

The Tidewater Chapter has been together for seven years. McCann estimates that over half are from Virginia Beach.

Since their major thrust is socializing, they sponsor a number of different activities to keep their members intellectually stimulated. They have a basic, once-a-month meeting and often have a guest speaker to provide discussion on a particular subject. They also have singles or family outings and "Game nights." As might be expected, the Mensans enjoy playing "Trivial Pursuit."

"I wouldn't say that it ("Trivial Pursuit") comes easier to us," McCann said. "We have people who are really good in a couple of categories and not so good in others. We just really enjoy it and lots of other games like Scrabble or Clue for that matter."

McCann became president of the Tidewater group in May. One of her first duties was to write to all the local city governments and to Governor Robb to have a proclamation naming a week "Mensa Week." Her first big public relations effort was a success as Governor Robb and the local city councils named June 16-22 "Mensa Week."

Committee to give awards

The Virginia Beach Crime Prevention Steering Committee is sponsoring an awards program to honor individuals and organizations who have made a significant contribution to crime prevention in Virginia Beach during the past year.

Certificates and plaques will be given in five categories: corporations, youth, individual, civic organizations, and City employees. Nominations must be based upon activities conducted by the nominee since October 1984. All nominees will be recognized at a public Crime Prevention Awards Ceremony in October, National Crime Prevention Month.

Past recipients of these awards include Farm Fresh Supermarkets and WVEC-TV for their work with Ident-A-Kid programs and their work with the missing child programs, Law Enforcement Explorer Posts as well as individual Explorers for their assistance in Crime Prevention legislation. Also included in past awards have been local Garden and Womens Clubs as well as many individuals.

Nominations must be received by August 1, 1985. Nomination forms may be obtained by writing to the Virginia Beach Crime Prevention Steering Committee, P. O. Box 2435, Virginia Beach, VA 23450.

Exchange students need homes

The ASSE International Student Exchange Program has exceptional high school students from Scandinavia, Germany, Holland, Switzerland and Great Britain, who are eager to spend a high school year in the U.S. with a loving, caring family such as yours.

The students, due to arrive in August, have full medical and liability insurance, are well screened by their high schools and the ASSE Organization, and have pocket money for social events. The family provides room and board and perhaps a measure of love.

Families are interviewed and assisted during the year by ASSE Area representative, Judi Kicker, who has had much experience with teenagers and has completed a comprehensive training workshop conducted by the ASSE Organization. "The exchange lasts just nine months; the friendships last forever," said Kicker.

For additional information on hosting an international exchange student Sun readers should contact Judi Kicker at 420-0676.

New ABC store opens at Beach

RICHMOND—The City of Virginia Beach had a new self-service store effective Friday, June 28 according to an announcement by the Virginia Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

The store is located in the new Lynnhaven Shoppes at 2973 Shore Drive, near the corner of Shore Drive and Great Neck Road.

"We have been studying the possibility of opening a new store in the Virginia Beach area for some time," said ABC Commissioner J. David Shobe, Jr. "We are pleased to be able to provide additional service to this fast growing area of the Commonwealth."

Operating hours of the new store will be 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Customers may browse and choose from more than 600 items available in the store. The Lynnhaven Shoppes provide ample parking and easy access to the store.

Alan C. Morrisette, an 11-year employee of the ABC Department, will be the manager of the store. He will be assisted by David W. Warren who has been with the department since 1981.

The department presently operates three ABC stores along the beach front. They are located at: 200 Atlantic Ave., Laskin Road in the Hilltop Shopping Center, 3114 Pacific Ave.

Four other ABC stores are within Virginia Beach City limits in addition to the new Shore Drive store. They are located at: 3333 Virginia Beach Blvd., 1103 South Military Highway, 5230 Fairfield Shopping Center, and 10719 Independence Blvd. in the Haygood Shopping Center.

Arts Center offers summer camp with a difference

By Cathy LeCompte
Sun Editor

There's a summer camp in Virginia Beach that a child can attend where he won't learn to swim or canoe or even shoot an arrow.

"What he might learn at ARTCAMP at the Virginia Beach Arts Center is how to operate a video camera or develop a photograph or create a painting based on a masterpiece."

Teresa Annas, who directs the program, says it is designed to bring out a child's natural creativity.

"We try to offer a program that's a little different," she said. "We offer classes that really bring out creativity, not just time consumer activities."

"I think children are best served by adults who know and like themselves." —Teresa Annas, Virginia Beach Arts Center

In Suzanne Stevens' "Drawing from the Masters" class, 11 boys and girls, ages 7 to 9, are interpreting a painting by Henri Matisse. Stevens draws the images, little by little, on the chalkboard as the students try to copy it on paper. Then, they paint their drawings with watercolors. Earlier in the week, they studied Picasso.

"I'd like the child to have a mind opening experience," Annas said. "It's wonderful when they see something in a way they've never seen it before."

While there are other art programs in the city, Annas said she thinks the Arts Center's is the most extensive. Ten talented instructors were chosen by Annas, some of whom have worked with "Bolivar" is adapting well to being away from his own kind and being raised by the Quays. He will even sit on Mrs. Quay's shoulder and nuzzle in her hair.

"Sometimes he'll take a nap up there after his dinner," she said. It is not an uncommon sight these days in Banbury Lake Village to see Mrs. Quay out taking "Bolivar" for a walk. But she won't be carrying the duckling. She has rigged up a special leash for him.

"I use a long piece of adhesive bandage and tape it to his leg," said Mrs. Quay. "Not many people would have thought of a leash for a duck."

"Bolivar" was taken away from his mother by some children when he was very young. Then when the kids tried to put him back with the rest of the ducks, the mother wouldn't have anything to do with him. It appears that the orphaned duck came up on the eight bank of the pond.

"I just like to nurse people and help people," said Mrs. Quay. "This little duck really needed it."

"The Quays don't plan to keep 'Bolivar' forever."

"As soon as he's able, we'll put him out here with the rest of the ducks," said Mr. Quay.

Safety first on the Fourth

The Fourth of July is traditionally a very festive holiday. And well it should be, since it is our country's collective birthday party. All across the land, Americans are celebrating the holiday in similar fashion. There will be picnics and ball games, family trips and fireworks in America's 209th year.

Sadly though, each year on this date, many Americans lose their lives because of their own carelessness or the carelessness of others. Holidays are supposed to be happy times, and all too often, the celebrating goes to an excess. When this happens, someone's holiday is usually tragically ruined.

So this year, make a conscious effort to change that.

If you're driving on a long trip or even just going a few miles to the beach, wear your seatbelts. It only takes a second to fasten them and it may save a life. Drive with care on the highway. Be courteous and cautious. Don't be in such a hurry to get to that Fourth of July picnic that you never make it. And most importantly, if you're drinking, don't drive at all. The Fourth of July weekend is one of the deadliest on the roadway because of drunken drivers.

Take special care of your children on this holiday weekend. Don't let them play unsupervised with firecrackers. Each year, thousands of children are maimed, blinded, or killed because of carelessness with firecrackers. Just take them to see a professional display. There are several in the area.

Play it safe this holiday weekend. Safer is always better.—C.L.

Buying American

Buying American can be difficult—even in America. Just ask state and local agencies in Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvania Legislature, in an effort to help the ailing steel industry, last year passed a law requiring that state and local governments buy only American-built cars.

It stipulated that manufacturers must certify that the autos were assembled in the United States and that three-fourths of the parts were manufactured domestically.

As a result, public agencies are complaining about being stuck with aging vehicles and the maintenance and repair costs needed to keep them in service. They can't purchase new ones because manufacturers and dealerships apparently can't meet the certification requirements.

Only local police departments have been granted waivers but there is a move afoot to allow government agencies to purchase vehicles made in "North America." It seems that U.S.-made cars typically include parts from Mexico and Canada.

Lawmakers who sponsored the legislation are opposed. They say that would defeat the purpose of protecting U.S. workers and U.S. products.

But then so does passing well-intentioned laws that can't be obeyed.

Lottery advocate speaks out

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

I'm with Del. J. W. (Billy) O'Brien's group, "Virginians For A Lottery Vote."

I'm coordinating an effort for this new organization group, to push for a statewide referendum, by circulating petitions throughout the commonwealth in support of a lottery referendum and to seek members of the General Assembly to vote in favor of a referendum.

A legislator could do that even if he were opposed to a lottery. We only ask to have a chance to vote.

It's time we the people - citizens stand up for our constitutional rights. Tradition, independence and freedom of choice for all citizens, which is that we have the right to vote on a lottery as individuals.

I'm looking for others who might be willing to help circulate petitions and/or help raise funds. Further information write "Virginians for a Lottery Vote" c/o Becky L. Potter, 3 Sndina Town Rd., King George, Va. 22485-9490 or call (703) 775-2579 from 8:30-4:30. BLP-Coordinator

I'm writing you to ask for your help, would you please print the above in your newspaper? We need your help to carry this issue to your part of our state, by doing so you would be helping us very much in carrying this throughout the state.

What's the big deal about fireworks

It came time to write my column for this week and I found myself wanting to write something about the approaching holiday. It seemed odd fitting to write something patriotic about this great country of ours. But alas, Kate, the editor of The Portsmouth Times and my colleague, beat me to it. She wrote hers on "Happy Birthday America."

So I couldn't seem like a copy cat. After all, I am the new kid on the block.

The dilemma set in. What about this holiday, the celebration of our country's birth, was I going to write?

And then I remembered that word that I've been seeing on nearly every press release to cross my desk in three weeks.

FIREWORKS. What is more American than fireworks on the Fourth of July?

Well, I hate to burst your bubble, but I don't even like fireworks. I hope that doesn't make me un-American. But you see, I've never been impressed with fireworks, even as a kid.

I know some of you out there are thinking, "Who does she think she is. Why, fireworks are as American as apple pie."

Let me assure you that I'm as patriotic as the next person. I always sing "The Star Spangled Banner" out loud at basketball games. When I was little, I faithfully said "The Pledge of Allegiance" with Miss Sally on "Romper Room." If I had a flag pole, I'd fly the flag.

But to me, fireworks are not awe inspiring. The Grand Canyon is awe inspiring. If you've ever been there and can mentally compare the two events, it's no contest.

LeCompte's Comments By Cathy LeCompte

Sunsets are also much more impressive to me than your "run of the mill" pyrotechnic display.

A fireworks show is one of those kinds of events I end up going to because everyone else is going, not because I particularly want to see it. It's kind of like a family reunion. You go because your mom tells you to. At Harborfest, all my friends have to stay to see the fireworks, so I have to stay, too.

I don't watch the fireworks though, I watch the people watching the fireworks.

It is much more pleasurable to me to see some of the expressions on the faces and hear some of the comments.

When one of the firecrackers makes a big bang or a bright flash in the sky, the entire audience says "Ooh, ah!"—the entire audience except me, of course. Sometimes, I mockingly "ooh and ahh."

Then, you hear people saying, "I like the ones that whir around in a circle," or "I like the ones that explode into all different colors."

Little kids are always fun to watch. When they're really small, they can't decide whether to laugh or cry at the fireworks display. Then, when they get a bit older, they talk constantly so that the people around them are thoroughly distracted.

I don't want to spoil anyone else's fun or rain on anyone's fireworks. If you like fireworks, more power to you. I'm sure this year will be no different for me. I'll go to the fireworks and I'll watch them, but I won't be impressed by them.

So if you're at Mount Trashmore and you see a blond who's yawning while everyone around her is going "ooh, ahh," you'll know I'm reluctantly celebrating the Fourth in All-American style.

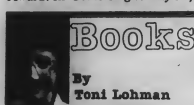

Local author writes about 'growing up'

Jimmy Jo Johnson is an eleven year old singing star, a frightened sixth grader starting school in a new town and dutiful son and grandson worried about the conflict appearing in his family. Most of all he is a young boy beginning to grow and facing all the confusion and uncertainty which often accompany this process.

Come Sing, Jimmy Jo by Katherine Paterson continues to enhance her reputation as an author who gives her readers memorable characters portrayed with sensitivity and imagination. Paterson, a resident of Norfolk, has received nationwide recognition for her previous books, including Bridge to Terabithia and Jacob Have I loved, both of which won the prestigious Newbery Medal and The Master Puppeteer which was a winner of the National Book Award. In Come Sing Jimmy Jo, which is set primarily in Tidewater, she once again has created well defined characters, realistic settings and a skillfully developed plot. The result is an appealing story which entertains while offering some thought-provoking ideas.

James Johnson, the youngest member of the singing Johnson family is afraid to perform for anyone except his grandmother. While his parents and other family members travel throughout Appalachia singing at churches, tent meetings and county fairs, James remains happily at home. Gradually, despite his fear, he begins to share his gift of music and perform with his family. Soon his talent and love of singing propel him and his family into the beginning of a successful music career. But success involves frightening changes.

James is renamed Jimmy Jo, the family moves from the West Virginia mountains to Tidewater, Virginia where they appear regularly on a country music television show, and Jimmy Jo starts to school, terrified that the other students will discover his identity as a television celebrity.

Things improve as he gradually begins to love performing and

Next, McCann wants to concentrate her efforts in two areas: better publicity for the group and a gifted children's special interest group (SIG.)

"We want to start working with the gifted children's program," she said. "We want to go into the schools and talk with the kids to find out how they feel and share some of our own past experiences with them."

From her own experiences, McCann knows the often "rocky road" a very intelligent child must travel.

"You go through life feeling different or being labeled as a trouble-maker because you're bored at school," McCann said. "And back then, they didn't have the special programs they do now. They were going to move me up two grades, but then they were worried about me being so much younger than my classmates."

McCann says she does see a trend starting where the schools are more aware of the need for advanced programs for gifted kids.

"My little brother and sister are both in an excellent program in Virginia Beach," she said. "They do research projects and then do formal presentations on them before the class and are graded by their peers."

McCann says there is no "typical" Mensan or Mensa meeting. The members range in age from 4 to 94, represent a variety of educational levels and occupations and a broad range of economic levels.

"I guess when I tell someone what the organization is, they picture a bunch of people sitting around discussing nuclear fission or something," McCann said. "But it's not that way. We've had discussions on just about any subject imaginable."

McCann assures that Mensa is not a group of "intellectual snobs," but an organization that provides a congenial atmosphere and a place to meet people. She met her husband there.

"It's a support group really," said McCann. "You find that you meet people you can really talk to, people who can give good advice."

The members of Mensa strike a good balance between those in the high tech fields and those in "people oriented" professions.

"We have a few doctors and lawyers and lots of people in the computer fields," said McCann. "It makes for very lively discussions."

(The opinions reflected here are those of Carol McCann. She is not speaking for American Mensa, LTD.)

School Board makes administrative appointments

Brown

Dr. K. Edwin Brown has been named director of the Virginia Beach public school division's office of planning, assessment, and resource development, filling the position which had been vacant since Dr. James C. Mounie passed away last April.

Dr. Brown's appointment heads the list of the 1985-86 school division administrative/supervisory appointments approved by the School Board at its June 18 meeting. The appointments take effect July 1.

Dr. Brown has been principal of the Old Donation Center for the Gifted and Talented for the last six years. He has been in public education in Virginia Beach for 21 years. Dr. Brown completed his undergraduate work and received his master's degree from the College of William and Mary and holds a doctorate from the University of Virginia.

The appointments also included several teachers named as curriculum and instructional specialists.

Named as curriculum specialists were Alma Hall and D. Lorna Johnson. Ms. Hall taught English at Kempsville Junior High, and Mrs. Johnson had been a reading teacher at First Colonial High.

Eight school division employees were promoted to specialists on the school division's three area instructional teams; they are Marilee W. Highfield, Esther B. Coleman, Mary F. Lee, Mary F. Daniels, Mary Catherine Peyton, Lemira G. Ritt, Sylvia M. Hallock, and Janet J. Zitt.

Mrs. Highfield, whose specialty will be adult and continuing education, has served as the community education coordinator at Bayside Junior High for the last three years. Ms. Coleman will specialize in language arts; she previously taught kindergarten at Thoroughgood Elementary. Ms. Lee has been a reading resource teacher at Shelton Park Elementary; she also will be a language arts specialist.

The two math and science instructional specialists appointed are Ms. Daniels and Ms. Peyton. Ms. Daniels has been a fifth grade teacher at Holland Elementary, and Ms. Peyton has taught second grade at Windsor Woods Elementary.

Lee Ritt will become a media and technology specialist for the area teams after serving with the Media and Technology Services Center.

Ms. Hallock assumes duties as a social studies specialist after teaching social studies at Cox High for the last eight years. Janet Zitt moves to the special education department after four years as a teacher of trainable mentally retarded students at the Center for Effective Learning.

Four persons were appointed to principalships at elementary schools for the 1985-86 school year. Mary P. Butler becomes principal of Brookwood Elementary, John H. Sutherland returns as principal of C.E.L., after a leave of absence, Emma C. Davis becomes principal of the Old Donation Center for the Gifted and Talented, and Steve H. Allgood becomes principal of Shelton Park Elementary.

Ferebee certified as professional standards procedures instructor

CHICAGO—National Association of Realtors' Professional Standards Committee Chairman Bob Tomb announced that Sandra W. Ferebee, President of the Tidewater Board of Realtors and Senior Vice President of Goodman Segar Hogan Residential Sales Corporation, has successfully completed an intensive two and a half day training program on the policies and procedures related to enforcement of REALTORS' Code of Ethics.

The seminar included sessions on the role of Board Grievance Committees, mediation, arbitration, and the conduct of ethics hearings. The seminar was conducted by prominent realtors from across the country including Tom Laswell (Kentucky), Joyce Bytof (Wisconsin), and Steve Casper (Ohio) and by key NAR staff members including Senior Vice President and General Counsel William D. North and Member and Board Policy Division Vice President Chesley J. (Chet) Smith. The seminar also featured sessions on the relation of antitrust law to Code enforcement and the use of declaratory judgment and judicial enforcement of arbitration awards.

Chairman Tomb expressed his gratitude to each of the 75 newly certified instructors and urged that they take an active role in "spreading the word" on the need for equitable Code enforcement procedures nationwide.

White joins U.S. Credit

C. Roy Kelley, President of U.S. Credit Corporation, announced that Jackie H. White, CPA has joined the firm as controller.

A resident of Suffolk, White came to U.S. Credit Corporation after serving as an Audit Supervisor for Coopers & Lybrand in Newport News. She graduated from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in 1979 with a Bachelor's degree in Accounting.

U.S. Credit Corporation is a diversified financial services firm based in Virginia Beach, serving Virginia and North Carolina.

ARTCAMP since it began four years ago. It's important for the instructor to enjoy working with children, but mostly, Annas said, they have to have a certain attitude toward creativity.

"I think kids are best served by adults who know and like themselves," she said. "Children are hungry to learn. They are dying for everything you can give them."

The brochure for ARTCAMP states that "We Believe that children are natural artists." The programs tend to reinforce the child's creative impulses.

"Art making is a natural human activity," Annas said. "I don't think we all should become professional artists."

Many of the instructors have special talents that are of unique benefit to the program. Susan Stevenson Garnett has earned six awards of merit for her video art. Bill Humphreys is a professional mime and character actor. Annas says she tries to use the instructors' special capabilities whenever possible to create a class that children can't find elsewhere.

"We're finding that kids can pick up on fairly sophisticated concepts early on," said Annas. "They really enjoy the video workshops and can learn the technical information easily."

Annas said the participation in the program last year was good—over 200 children signed up. The classes were scheduled to start on June 17 this summer, but lack of participation forced the center to push the first classes back to June 24. Annas still expects the program to do well this year.

The classes are offered in two age groups: 7 to 9 years and 10 to 12 years. Annas said she would like to eventually offer as extensive a program to teens.

"We often let teens participate in our adult classes, because we don't offer as many teen programs," she said.

The center is planning a program in July with students from the Governors' Magnet School. Thirty 11th and 12th grade students will participate in an "experimental collaboration workshop" in three different art mediums. One group will work on a video art project. The second section will do a performing arts project. And the third group will do "installation art."

"The kids in the installation art will have to create an environment," said Annas. "They'll have to work together to decide just what kind of environment to create in the space they have."

The cooperative project with The Governor's Magnet School is a way for the center to expose the talented kids to some alternative art forms that do exist as a career for an artist. The art forms aren't as well known in this area.

"The only place you get a steady diet of these alternatives is in New York City," Annas said. "The trickling down process takes time, but they do exist as careers."

The Arts Center is planning to showcase the ARTCAMP participants work at a public reception on Friday, Aug. 9 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Center at 1711 Arctic Ave. If space permits, the instructors will also show some of their work.

In addition to their children's programs, the center also offers a variety of adult classes from photography to painting. For more information about any of the center's programs, call Teresa Annas at 452-0000.

Divaris appoints two marketing representatives

VIRGINIA BEACH—Gerald S. Divaris, president of Divaris Real Estate, has appointed the Richmond firm Bowers Nelms and Fonville and the Washington, D.C., firm of Shannon & Luchs as marketing representatives for 3556-On-The-Bay, a luxury condominium project in Virginia Beach.

Divaris, whose Virginia Beach company is a partner in the $10.6 million 3556-On-The-Bay along with Atlantic Permanent Federal Savings and Loan, notes that Bowers Nelms and Fonville will supervise marketing efforts to the Richmond metropolitan area while Shannon and Luchs will concentrate on the northern Virginia, suburban Maryland and Washington, D.C., areas.

Divaris said he selected both firms based on their expertise in marketing luxury and resort residences.

Tidewater realtors praised for fund-raising effort

RICHMOND—The Tidewater Board of Realtors has drawn praise for its recent fund-raising efforts designed to further the prevention of child abuse.

State Realtor President Fred B. Hetzel, in a letter to Board President Sandee Ferebee, said "your members' participation in last month's 'Walk for Virginia's Children' was an excellent demonstration of the kind of personal concern which Realtors have for the welfare of their community."

The local Walk by the Tidewater Board of Realtors was one of more than a dozen similar "walk-a-thons" conducted by Realtors across the state on May 14. The Tidewater Board raised $4,153.00.

"I want you to know," said

Other officers elected to 1985-'86 terms are vice president of programs, Mark Baker of Heritage Garden Center in Grafton; vice president of public relations, E. P. Curling, extension agent in Chesapeake; vice president of membership, Rick Spalenka, Landscape Management of Virginia Beach.

Also, secretary, Laura Gehman, Portsmouth Department of Parks and Recreation; treasurer, John Parrish of Todd Co., Turf & Garden of Chesapeake; and directors, Charlie Parkerson of Lancaster Farms Inc., Suffolk; Jim Haines of National Turf, Newport News; Charlie Corson of Nature's Way Landscapes in Newport News, and Wayne Sawyer of Bennetts Creek Nursery, Suffolk.

Norman T. Beal, a Virginia Cooperative Extension Service agent in Newport News, recently was named "Horticulturist of the Year" by the association.

Located on the Chesapeake Bay and the Lynnhaven River, 3556 features sophisticated architecture that is reminiscent of the French Riviera and such amenities as wrap-around balconies; imported marble in the foyers, bathrooms and kitchens; crystal chandeliers; built-in safety deposit boxes; and bidets and heated towel bars in the bathrooms.

Bowers Nelms & Fonville is Richmond's largest full-service real estate company—more than twice the size of its nearest competitor. It is the only Richmond firm with six residential offices as well as fully staffed divisions specializing in commercial sales and leasing, property management, relocation, new homes and resort property.

Shannon Luchs is the largest real estate company exclusively serving the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area. The $1 billion company provides services in residential and commercial sales, commercial leasing, residential and commercial management and insurance.

Hetzel, "that this volunteer effort by Realtors, which resulted in the collection of more than $27,000 statewide, is appreciated not only by the leadership of the Virginia Association of Realtors, but also by Governor Charles S. Robb and those state leaders, both in government and in private sector organizations, who are directing Virginia's efforts against child abuse and neglect."

All the contributions raised by Realtor Walks statewide will be used to publish an educational booklet on the prevention of child abuse being jointly developed by the Virginia Department of Social Services, Parents Anonymous, Inc., and the Virginia Chapter of the National Committee for the Prevention of Child Abuse.

Legal Secretaries hold Bosses' Night

The Virginia Beach Legal Secretaries Association recently held their annual Bosses' Night Dinner at the Hilton Inn Oceanfront. Highlights of the evening included the installation of the new officers, by the Honorable Phillip L. Russo, Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach. The newly installed officers are: Myrtle McKinney, President; Pamela Klavenski, Vice President; Laura Rice, Secretary; Allegra Winters, Treasurer; Ann Terlizzi, NALS Representative; and Michele Love, PLS, Governor.

Presentations for the 1985 Legal Secretary of the Year and 1985 Boss of the Year were made by Carter R. (Tuck) Anderson. Myrtle L. McKinney was chosen Legal Secretary of the Year and J. Peter Holland, III, was chosen Boss of the Year. Mrs. McKinney has been secretary to Peter Holland for fourteen years.

A special presentation was made to Linda C. Johnson, PLS, who became the second PLS (Professional Legal Secretary) in the Virginia Beach area.

World Trade Center II to begin

NORFOLK—Developer Goodman Segar Hogan will begin work on World Trade Center II later this summer. In a recent ceremony, a deal was signed with LOPC Joyce International which would allow the parcel of land adjoining World Trade Center to be used for the new project. Shown witnessing the signing are (rear, L-R) GSH President Robert Stanton, Norfolk Mayor Joseph Leafe and GSH Chairman Hunter Hogan. Signing the papers are (seated L-R) GSH Senior Vice President and Director of Development Ronald Race and LOPC Vice President and General Manager Omar Baumgartner. LOPC will maintain a downtown showroom while moving its offices to a location on Tidewater Drive. WTC II will connect to the existing World Trade Center on the southeast side along Waterfront Drive. Completion of the building is set for September, 1986.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULEMAKING PROCEEDING GOVERNING THE PLACEMENT AND INSTALLATION OF NETWORK INTERFACE DEVICES IN EXISTING BUSINESS AND RESIDENCES AND IN ALL NEW MULTI-STORY, MULTI-OCCUPANCY BUILDINGS - CASE NO. PUC830039

By order dated March 1, 1984 the Commission adopted rules governing the clarification and definition of the point of demarcation via a network interface device ("NID") separating the telephone company-provided facilities from customer premises wiring. These rules also addressed the installation and placement of NIDs for new single one and two line installations in single or duplex residence or business structures and for single one and two line installations in multi-story or multi-occupancy buildings, campuses, malls, etc.

The Commission is now considering additional rules which will govern single one and two line NID installations in existing business and residences and installation of NIDs in all new multi-story, multi-occupancy buildings, beginning construction after January 1, 1986. The rules would govern the installation of NIDs for reasons other than the initial installation of telephone service by a network installer-perperson.

The text of the proposed rules can be read at the Commission's Document Control Center, Floor B1, Jefferson Building, Bank and Governor Streets, Richmond, Virginia, and during regular business hours at the business offices where bills may be paid of your telephone company.

Interested persons may submit written comments on the proposed rules on or before August 29, 1985, by filing an original and fifteen (15) copies of such comments with George W. Bryant, Jr., Clerk, Virginia State Corporation Commission, c/o Document Control Center, P.O. Box 2118, Richmond, Virginia 23216. These comments must refer to Case No. PUC830039. Anyone who wishes to be heard by the Commission on the subject of the rules must file an original and fifteen (15) copies of a request for hearing not later than August 29, 1985, with George W. Bryant, Jr., Clerk Virginia State Corporation Commission, P.O. Box 2118, Richmond, Virginia 23216, and must refer to Case No. PUC830039. A hearing on the proposed rules will be granted only at the discretion of the Hearing Examiner. In the absence of a request for hearing, the Hearing Examiner may be expected to act on the proposed rules after considering all written comments.

Now's the time for flowering vitex

By Jay Meers
McDonald Garden Center

Summer is a good time to enjoy the great outdoors along with your own home landscape. Using varieties of plant material that perform well during this time of year is one way of getting the most from this fun season. Flowering Chaste Tree (or Vitex as it is more commonly referred) is a summer flowering ornamental tree that likes it here in Tidewater, and can add a lot of color and interest to your landscape. Now's the time when Vitex begins to take the spotlight with its rich blue long-lasting flowers.

Vitex will grow to almost 20 feet and tends to be somewhat spreading with an umbrella shaped canopy. It makes a good lawn tree as well as a street tree. Our friends on the peninsula have used it for years along their city highways. Southside has not, for some unknown reason. It certainly has many fine qualities.

Typically, Vitex reaches peak bloom shortly before Crepe Myrtles, about mid-July. However, a second and sometimes third bloom is not unusual when the first set of spent flower heads are shed off. Vitex blooms on its current seasons growth so the best time to do major pruning is in early spring before new growth begins. It's quite disease and insect resistant as well as long living.

We're fortunate to be in the hardiness zone for Vitex as our friends to the north cannot grow it. The fragrant flowers are born on long spikes up to 6 inches long. Its foliage is also aromatic having a somewhat strong though not unpleasant aroma. If you've never tried Vitex you're certainly missing a great opportunity to add color and excitement to your summer landscape.

romance, extending to the curved lounge area and all enlivened view of Linkhorn Bay...sunssets, yachts...in fervent contrast to the Econo Lodge exterior.

The dining is continental and modestly priced. It features seafood, steak and veal, with a heavy concentration on seafood in the summertime. Menu variations include a few French dishes, even a touch of Vietnamese cuisine. But what attracts the crowds? Sometimes, cars line the roadway for miles!

It's the entertainment...big name bands!

In the Round Room, Virginia Beachers enjoy dancing to live entertainment. The 25-45 age crowd is "a very likeable group of people," says Hao. "There's no need for a bouncer or dress code."

Famous names appearing regularly include The Showmen, Clovers, Coasters, Johnny Fisher Show, Sounds Of The Drifters and Gentlemen And Their Ladies. In contrast to new disco spots Hao Keeps the heat on with live music, floor shows and the fans loyally return for feverish nites of dancing and hot entertainment.

Sunday nites are "Strong" with beach music. "So strong we open Wednesday nites for more...it's coming alive. It's getting better and better," said Hao.

Magnetizing people come from all over Hampton Roads, (even letters come in from Elizabeth, N.C.)

Hao maintains direct promotion with an active, mailing list for Rendezvous fans with information on upcoming events. Like years ago... it is "the beach music place. The people are familiar with the songs, the music and everyone loves to dance," said Hao.

In conjunction with the fraternity that coordinates the music, the boating trend is becoming. Accessibility by water and temporary slips are a secret worth keeping.

Hao's 13 year residence in Virginia Beach and his bachelor degrees in business and hotel management suit him for the hospitality business. His unique attitude exceeds his qualifications.

Roger Matthews of Virginia Beach said what he liked most about Rendezvous was, "When the owner gets out on the dance floor and boogies."

Preferred customer cards are available to the Rendezvous Beach Club for $15 thru '85, includes free admission to shows and service. Annual membership is $35. Telephone 425-6900.

"The reason we picked the name—it's like ROMANCE—for the young, the old...everybody likes romance." Hao Nguyen (pronounced Hal Wim) President and General Manager of the RENDEZVOUS entertainment and dining complex on Laskin Rd. (formerly the White Heron.)

Virginia Stage Company holds advisory council luncheon

The Virginia Stage Company's $2.85 million capital campaign to restore its home, the National Historic Landmark Wells Theatre, took a major step forward in its organization today when Mr. Henry Clay Hofheimer, II, Chairman of the campaign's Advisory Council, hosted a luncheon on-stage in the theatre to welcome members of the newly formed Advisory Council.

Over 40 select business and civic leaders, representing Greater Hampton Roads, were on hand to lend their support to the campaign and to view firsthand the necessity to restore and renovate the theatre to prevent irreparable deterioration.

During his remarks, Mr. Hofheimer stated, "The campaign to restore this magnificent theatre is important for all of Greater Hampton Roads. It is an opportunity to support the commonwealth's leading professional resident theatre company and, at the same time, preserve a National and State historic landmark. Both produce a positive economic impact on our region. There is something here to interest everyone and it is vital that we all support this exciting, challenging effort."

This is the first major restoration and preservation project ever undertaken by a non-profit performing arts organization in Greater Hampton Roads, and a first-time capital campaign by the Virginia Stage Company.

Singing group needs voices

The Tidewater Women's Chorus needs "voices." The group specializes in four-part harmonies of all types of music. Rehearsals are Mondays from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at Emmanuel Episcopal Church on Princess Anne Road. For more information, Sun readers should call Connie Davis at 464-3396.

Boys Club offers trip

The Boys Club of Virginia Beach, 4441 South Boulevard (next to Mt. Trashmore) is offering a trip to Busch Gardens Wednesday, July 17th from 9-5 p.m. For more information about membership and trip details call the Boys Club at 499-2311, Ext 39.

They also are forming whiffleball teams, ages 10 to 14, starting July 8.

Sorority sponsors craft show

The Seventh Annual Cricket on the Hearth Craft Show, sponsored by Preceptor Alpha Xi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi which is a nonprofit service organization, is July 12, 13, and 14, at the Virginia Beach Pavilion.

The show will open on Friday, July 12 and Saturday, 13th from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sunday July 14 from 12 noon to 6 p.m. The admission price is $1.25 per adult, $1 per senior citizen and children under 12 will be admitted free if accompanied by an adult.

Proceeds from the show will be used to purchase equipment for the Spina Bifida Association of Tidewater.

Monopoly tournament scheduled in Norfolk

A monopoly tournament celebrating the 50th anniversary of the board game, to benefit the Bertha Snyder Children's Camp Fund and Care Fund will be held Saturday, July 13, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. The location for the event is outside Waterside.

Two preliminary rounds of Monopoly will be played to determine the finalists. Then a final round will decide the tournament winner. Long game rules will be followed in all rounds. The winner will receive over $2,000 in prizes.

The winner is eligible for the state eliminations. Champions from the 50 states will receive all-expenses-paid trip to the U.S. Championship. The $20 registration fee will support a variety of handicapped kids with a variety of support programs including summer camps for the needy. Sun readers should call 625-CAMP for information.

New license plates available July 1

RICHMOND—applications for Great Seal License Plates will be accepted at all Department of Motor Vehicle offices, beginning July 1, according to Donald E. Williams, DMV commissioner.

Similar to the Bicentennial Plate, the Great Seal Plate will feature the state seal in the center with three numbers on the right and left. The world Virginia will be in red, numbers in blue, and the seal will be shown in blue and gold.

Williams said new numbers have also been designed to enhance the appearance of the plate. Numbers will begin with 500,001 and end with 750,000. Revised combinations are not available in this series.

The new collector's plates were authorized by 1985 legislation introduced by Del. Wendalyn F. Cody, Fairfax Co.

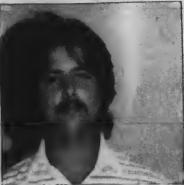

In addition to vehicle registration fees, there will be a one-time $25 fee for the new Great Seal Plates. Sales for the first year are expected to generate about $200,000 for highway maintenance and construction.

Initially, plates will be mailed from DMV headquarters in Richmond. Delivery is expected to take about three weeks.

DMV will also issue two other new license plate series beginning July 1. Veteran and street rod plates will be available for a $10 annual fee in addition to registration fees.

Applications for veteran plates must present separation papers indicating honorable military discharge. Street rod plates will be issued for vehicles manufactured before 1949, or that designed to resemble vehicles made before that year.

Two men sought by Crime Solvers

Bullock

Elliott

Virginia Beach Crime Solvers is looking for two men, Jesse Scott Bullock and Lawrence Thomas Elliott, who are wanted in connection with crimes committed in Virginia Beach. If a tip to Crime Solvers leads to the arrest of either man, the caller will be eligible for a cash reward of up to $1,000.

Bullock is a 22 year old white male, five-foot-seven inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, and has brown hair and brown eyes. He is wanted in connection with the June 6 shooting at the Wayside Inn on Witchdow Road where one man died and a second seriously wounded.

Elliott is a 23 year old white male, five feet-six inches tall, weighs 140 pounds, and has brown hair and brown eyes. He is being sought in connection with a July, 1984 crime spree where he allegedly wrote 72 worthless checks in a one month period to numerous Virginia Beach businesses. The checks totaled in excess of $1,600.

Anyone with information regarding these two or any wanted person is asked to call Crime Solvers at 427-0000. Crime Solvers also pays cash for information about any crime or for information leading to the recovery of stolen property or the confiscation of illegal drugs. Code numbers are assigned to protect the identity of all callers.

Library sponsors summer activities

Members of the Virginia Beach Police Department, K-9 Corps, will give a demonstration for children participating in the Summer Reading Club, and anyone else interested, on Tuesday, July 9, at 10 a.m. at the Bayside Area Library (936 Independence Boulevard). They will demonstrate the training requirements that both human and dog must go through to learn techniques necessary for crowd control, apprehending criminals, etc. Adults are requested to attend with young children. For more information on this demonstration, or the Summer Reading Club, please call the library at 464-9280.

"Ben and Me," "Big Light-house and the Little Steamship," "Little Toot" and "Sandcastle" will make up a one hour movie program for children of all ages on Wednesday, July 10, at 3 p.m. in the Great Neck Area Library (1251 Bayne Drive). For more information on this children's movie program or other programs the library is having during the summer, please call the library at 481-6094.

"The ODU Brass Quintet will perform at the Oceanfront Area Library on Friday, July 12, at 11 a.m. This performance will be the second in the summer long series of different performances provided by Young Audiences of Virginia, Inc. The Quintet specializes in music from around the world highlighting the individuality of the different brass instruments. Young people will especially enjoy this performance. For more information on either this performance or the others scheduled throughout the summer, please call the library at 428-4113.

NOTICE OF

PUBLIC HEARING

The Virginia Beach Planning Commission will hold a Public Hearing on Tuesday, July 9, 1985 at 12:00 Noon in the Council Chambers of the City Hall Building, Princess Anne Courthouse, Virginia Beach, Virginia. A briefing session will be held at 9:00 a.m. in the Planning Department Conference Room. Operations Building. Planning Commission action is not a final determination of the application, but only a recommendation to the City Council as the viewpoint of the Planning Commission. Final determination of the application is to be made by City Council at a later date, after Public Notice in a newspaper having general circulation with the City.

Those members of the public interested in attending the public hearing should be advised that, for reasons the Planning Commission deems appropriate, certain items on the agenda may be heard out of order and that it should not be assumed that the order listed below will be exactly followed during the public hearing.

The staff reviews of some or all of the items on this agenda suggest that certain conditions be attached to approval by City Council. However, it should not be assumed that those conditions constitute all the conditions that will ultimately be attached to the project. Staff agencies may impose further conditions and requirements during administration of applicable city ordinances.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

Honor America

The things that the flag stands for were created by the experiences of great people. Everything that it stands for was written by their lives. The Flag is the embodiment, not of sentiment, but of history. It represents the experiences made by men and women, experiences of those who do and live under the Flag.

The American's Creed

I believe in the United States of America as a government of people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag; and to defend it against all enemies.

YOUR WATER: IS THERE MORE THERE THAN MEETS THE EYE?

In 1980, the U.S. Government's Council on Environmental Quality reported that chlorine added to water increased THMs and the risk of urinary tract & gastrointestinal cancer. High Sodium Chlorine level in the water is not recommended for people with high blood pressure or other ailments that require Sodium restricted diets.

Now, there is a water treatment system that effectively removes all THMs, Asbestos, & 99.9% of all other impurities and does not add Sodium at a cost that anyone can afford for your safety & that of your family. Call for more information or private demo 467-2728, 427-0982.

EOC can smooth path to career change

By Cathy LeCompte
Editor

The typical scenario that faces the counselors at the Educational Opportunity Center is this: A recently divorced or separated woman in her early 30's finds herself thrust back into the job market after a few years as a housewife. She probably has a couple of children to support. She might have a degree in elementary education and have worked for two years as a teacher, but doesn't want to go back to that type of work.

The Educational Opportunity Center on Virginia Beach Boulevard in Virginia Beach offers three types of counseling that might aid people confronted with the dilemma of the above scenario.

"We offer career, educational and financial aid counseling," said Patsy Moore Talbott, one of the four counselors at the EOC.

The EOC, which is federally funded by the Department of Education, has existed for six years. They have just gotten approval for another three year grant. Talbott estimates that they've seen more than 15,000 clients since opening their doors in 1979.

"Our services are geared toward adults," she said. "We don't see many high school kids. Adults who are thinking about changing careers or going back to school find our services helpful."

The service is free to those who fall into the low income bracket and there is only a minimal $5 fee for those who don't. There is no limit to one's use of the facilities. A client can come back many times for the one time $5 fee.

"You could easily pay hundreds of dollars elsewhere for the services we offer," Talbott said. The career counseling involves helping people make an initial career decision or helping those who want to change careers. They have a variety of aptitude and career-interest tests that can be given to the client. The process starts with a nice, long talk with one of the counselors.

"I try to find out what skills they know they have," Talbott said. "I find out what's important to them in a job and what kinds of things they enjoy doing."

Talbott said she finds many more people are confused about exactly what they want to do. They aren't in touch with their own abilities or preferences.

"We see many more people who don't know what they want to do," she said. "They really lack self-knowledge."

Occasionally, they will see a client who knows what he/she wants to do, but is being a bit less than realistic in the pursuit of that career.

"We'll have someone who says she wants to go into public relations, but tells me she doesn't like to write or speak before a group. I have to wonder how

Spend 20 years studying reincarnation

EDWARD BELLAMY
1834-1908

By Cathy LeCompte
Editor

Joe and Mary Myers believe they have found the reincarnated persons of Emily Dickinson, Judy Garland, and Mark Twain.

Joseph Myers believes he was author Edward Bellamy in a previous life. Mary Myers was the sainted Therese Martin.

They have some 60 documented cases from 20 years of studying reincarnation and trying to prove their hypothesis that personality and physical traits repeat from one life to the next.

"Plato said the souls of the dead return in bodies that are similar to the previous bodies," Joseph Myers said. "They would have the same innate urges and drives and characteristics."

The idea of physiognomy is not new, Myers said. It is the study of judging human character from facial features. But Joseph Myers searched for a long time before finding anyone with a similar school of thought about its connection with reincarnation.

"In all the books I read about reincarnation, and I read a bunch of them, nobody seemed to see that people should look alike," Joe Myers said. "I had known for a long time that I couldn't be a discoverer, because I knew that anyone who had the same 'experiences' that I had would see the same things and tell about it."

The experiences Myers had were meditation experiences where he saw that he had lived before and that he looked similar in his other lives. During meditation, Myers has also made identifications of other people.

Myers says our physical makeups change very little from one life to the next. Many characteristics like hands, ears, handwriting and facial construction remain almost identical. Personality characteristics and life occurrences may also parallel.

"I saw that I looked alike and I had the same problems," Myers said. "I modified them a little bit, but I was very much working with the same bugs and hang ups all these years."

The Myerses did most of the research on their own, because other notable figures in the field didn't share their belief. They were looking for a case of a living or recently living person with someone from the past who had left a record, usually a photograph or drawing, so they could compare the physical features.

"I didn't find anybody for a long time," Myers said. "And I felt anybody would be willing to make the sacrifice to bring in some new information that would help."

"Until finally I got the case of the one man who would be willing to expose himself. I got my own case," he said.

Joseph Myers believes he was author Edward Bellamy, who wrote the book, "Looking Backward." Comparing pictures of the two men shows a remarkable resemblance, even to the slight slant of the right eyelid of both men.

After their research received national coverage on "PM Magazine," the couple started getting letters and phone calls from people who believed they

Volunteers needed for work with mentally handicapped

The Mental Retardation/Developmental Disabilities Programs of Virginia Beach need volunteers in several areas.

Volunteers are needed to assist adults with cerebral palsy in the use of computers, 8 a.m. - 6 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Hours and days are flexible. No experience required.

The Respite Summer Day Camp Program needs people to assist with mentally retarded and developmentally delayed children ages 2-21, August 5-23, 9-2, Mondays-Fridays. Enthusiastic teenagers are encouraged to apply.

Volunteers will be needed in the Developmental Preschool and the Infant Stimulation Programs beginning in September. Anyone interested in working with developmentally disabled preschoolers and infants may apply now for the Fall session. Helpers are needed to advertise for funds for adult clients in the Case Management Program. Adults are needed to volunteer for the Case Management Program working evenings and weekends with mentally retarded and developmentally disabled adults. Days and times are flexible.

A volunteer is needed to assist in making a handbook for the Respite Center, a day care center for handicapped children.

A volunteer is needed on Wednesdays 10-12 to assist MR/DD adults with grocery shopping skills.

Clerical assistance is always needed in the Mental Retardation/Developmental Disabilities offices, Pembroke 6 and other locations. For more information on these and other volunteer positions, Sun readers should contact Beki Euse at 499-7619.

CLASP plans July events

CLASP (Citizens Loving All Special People) will hold a monthly business meeting Thursday, July 18, at 7:30 p.m. at the Bow Creek Recreation Center, 3427 Clubhouse Road, Virginia Beach. All voting members are encouraged to attend. All other interested persons are also invited.

For further information, Sun readers should call Lynn Gallo, 463-8012 or Ken Gearhart, 422-1381.

At its May meeting, the group elected new officers who took office on July 1. They are Lynn Gallo, pres.; Ken Gearhart, vice pres.; Mary L'Italien, secretary; and Juanita Baird, treasurer.

Also, CLASP will sponsor a dance for physically and mentally handicapped people on Saturday, July 20 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. The event will be held at Bow Creek Recreation Center, 3427 Clubhouse Road. Transportation is available through TRT at a cost of $5 per person roundtrip. Sun readers should call Carolyn Wismer before July 11 for transportation reservations at 853-8789.

Virginia Beach General plans innovative heart institute

VIRGINIA BEACH—The board of directors of Virginia Beach General Hospital approved the establishment of the Virginia Beach Heart Institute, a complete heart center to be located in the resort city.

The new center will bring together adult cardiologists, pediatric cardiologists and cardiac surgeons to form a unique arrangement of availability for the area's complete comprehensive network of heart specialists and services. Several area specialists are joining Virginia Beach General Hospital in the new institute, most of whom currently participate in cardiac catheterization laboratories and cardiac surgery programs at Norfolk General Hospital or Children's Hospital of The King's Daughters.

In making the announcement, W. Mackenzie Jenkins, Jr., chairman of the board of directors of Virginia Beach General Hospital, said, "This new program is one we've been working toward for some time. Our hospital has been at the forefront of many developments in cardiac care, and the Heart Institute will allow us to pull it all together into the area's first coordinated program to give our patients the best cardiac care available."

Pops perform Lotus Festival

The Virginia Beach Pops will perform Sunday, July 21 at 7:30 p.m. at the Norwegian Lady Plaza located at 25th Street and Atlantic Avenue, Oceanfront.

Under the direction of conductor Walter Noona, the orchestra will perform such favorites as "Victory at Sea," "Stars and Stripes Forever," selections from Oliver, and a medley of Stevie Wonder hits.

This concert in honor of the 31st Annual Lotus Festival is co-sponsored by the Cape Henry Woman's Club, Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation, and the Virginia Beach Arts and Humanities Commission, and is free and open to the public.

Virginia Beach General officials cited several developments that have prepared them for the Heart Institute. Included were Virginia's first pre-hospital coronary care system in cooperation with the Virginia Beach Rescue Squad; the area's first coronary care unit for monitoring acute heart attack victims; extensive experience in non-invasive testing in the diagnosis of heart disease; the first hospital to use adult doppler echo, an expansion of the more common echocardiogram; a regional referral experience in nuclear cardiology; and technology's most up-to-date camera for rapid evaluation of heart functions, soon-to-be installed at the hospital, one of only two in the Southeast.

The Heart Institute will use the equipment, technicians and the cardiology specialists to provide a wide array of non-invasive cardiac studies for patients referred by their personal physicians. The adult and pediatric cardiologists and cardiac surgeons will be available on referral to see patients for consultation and examination with eighteen specialists participating in the program. Cardiac surgery and pediatric cardiac catheterization are currently performed only at Norfolk General Hospital. However, Virginia Beach General has a certificate-of-need pending with the State Health Department for an adult cardiac catheterization laboratory, which has already received approval from the local Health Systems Agency.

The institute will be located in a building adjacent to the hospital which is planned for completion in early 1986. The institute will work closely with the VBGH Wellness Center which will also be adjacent to the hospital and will offer among its services primary prevention—as well as rehabilitation—of patients with heart disease. The institute and the Wellness Center combined with the emergency cardiac care program of the rescue squads and the cardiac care units will give area residents ready access to a complete spectrum of cardiac care.

"As the key hospital in Virginia's largest city, we have an obligation to residents to deliver state-of-the-art health care. The new Birthing Center, our multi-million dollar addition, new surgical suites, new Wellness Center and now the Heart Institute confirm our commitment to meet our health care obligations to the community," Jenkins said.

The path of terrorism

With terrorism on the upswing, Americans are talking about the nature of Islamic fundamentalism. These attempts to understand the basis of the problem are admirable, but vain endeavors to relieve ourselves of a genuine understanding, resulting in a healthy commitment to separate what is God's (the church) and what is Caesar's (the state). When Jesus said this, he may have literally been conversing about tax monies, but his meaning was much deeper.

Religion, one of man's inventions, should be a personal decision to regard all of humankind as we want them to regard us. The degree of commitment we feel to this should be God and ourselves, alone. The fact is that the golden rule is an essential basis understood in all religions, Islam, Christian, Hindu, Buddhist. Religious fundamentalists, people who choose to impose on others a fanatical interpretation and zeal seek to change this universal guide for kindness by demanding the acceptance of their God and their interpretation of scripture.

Government, another of man's inventions, was created for the systematic enforcement of law and order in a land. To any civilized nation that means fair and equal treatment towards all of its citizenry to promote personal happiness and, ultimately, national security. At least in theory, America's government best embraces the enlightened ideals of a democratic justice, freedom and dignity available for citizens of the United States.

The intelligent American brings to politics his own understanding born out of a religious education and conviction. This political acumen and sensitivity can be witnessed in Jesus, Ghandi, Martin Luther, Socrates, Rev. Martin Luther King and others who chose to meet people with peaceable actions.

Ethnocentric reasons alone can explain why so many people will agree on the dangers and folly of allowing a religious fanaticism to pervade the political arena, as long as they can point an accusing finger elsewhere but at home. The general consensus on terrorism is that to allow or even institute governmental policy based on a religious bias is not only sheer madness, it is morally unethical and extremely dangerous. Two cases in point are the American hostages held in the American Embassy in Iran and the most recent American hostages from the TWA flight. Any sane, rational person considers these Islamic gunmen crazy to pursue this evil in the name of religion.

Even with all the acquired knowledge we have from past horrors, a "Christian" fundamentalism is, also, on the upswing in America, complete with hard-line tactics to institute as civil law, religious dogmas. What is most awful is that they are passing this immoral activity off as Christian when it is anything but. The Moral Majority, the 700 Club, and groups like them are not that much different from the intolerant reign of Ayatollah Khomeini, the symbol of modern religious tyranny. The ruthless attacks by the "Christian" fundamentalists, to ruin the reputations and personal lives of moderates and liberals is indeed unchristian, undemocratic, immoral and uncomfortably similar to the unsavory tactics of the Islamic fanatics. Evil has been propagated in the name of Christianity for hundreds of years. Even Hitler thought God was on his side.

During the metamorphosis from medieval times to the enlightened days of the Renaissance, Europeans looked to the Near East where Socratic logic enhanced political and social progress. Through the years, Iran has allowed the gradual erosion of any such progress by blindly reacting to the decadence and cruelty of a war laden area. Desperate for change, the Islamic people looked to Allah, their God, for relief. Inevitably, Iran fell to the slow and sure pressure that paved the road to religious tyranny.

Today, many Americans, also reacting adversely to societal decadence, are willing to follow extreme religious revivals in the hope of reform, even though the price is personal freedom. Led by fundamentalist preachers, they are continually working to erode the basic rights that ensure American freedom and dignity to choose and act according to personal discretion. The political monies they solicit for religious purposes are depleting America's greatest resource, democracy.

"Let him who has ears", and a mind to reason with, learn from this critical and desperate crisis. We should never allow the arrogance of religious fundamentalism to covertly, or overtly manipulate constitutional law in the name of any religion, Christian, Islamic or whatever. We should squelch any actions to institute religious tyranny over human minds.—Addie Eldridge

Council overrides truck owners' rights

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

As a person who once lived in Virginia Beach, all I can say is that I'm glad I've moved. Never have I seen, since the Civil Rights activities in the 1960s, such blatant disregard for civil liberties.

The reason for my discontent? The actions of the Virginia Beach City Council which negates the rights of persons who own jacked up 4 x 4 trucks by first prohibiting those vehicles on the strip and then kicking the protesters from Council chambers. Hasn't Mayor Heischouer ever heard of the Bill of Rights, democracy or open meeting laws?

How dare he kick citizens out of a public meeting? And how dare the City Council establish such a law in the first place?

I'm safe from the law - I own a Honda. But that does not matter. City Council might get some idea someday that Japanese cars should be banned. I'm disgusted. No more will I bring visiting friends and family to the largest Resort City in the U.S. Obviously, Virginia Beach has gotten too big for its britches and its citizens.

Sincerely,
Jane Vaughan

Book tells how to forgive and forget

Alexander Pope's adage, "To err is human, to forgive divine" expresses a sense that all of us have felt at one time or another. We'd like to forgive, we want to forgive, but the act seems to require a superlative quality that we cannot muster.

In his book, Forgive and Forget, Healing the Hurts that We Don't Deserve, Lewis B. Smedes describes four steps essential to the process of forgiving. This thoughtful work acknowledges that forgiveness requires motivation, effort and love. But, the results are more than mere satisfaction. Peace of mind and a good sense of inner self are the significant attributes of an individual who is able to forgive.

Smedes, a professor of Theology and Ethics, offers hurt, hate, healing and coming together as the four stages involved in forgiving. Hurtful experiences that trouble us enough

"Forgiving is not forgetting." "Excusing is not forgiving," and that "Accepting people is not forgiving them."

Forgive and Forget is a sensitively written work about a very human process. It is more than just another self help book and will appeal to readers interested in the full course of change involved in forgiveness. The final results are strength and freedom. "When you forgive another person you are surprised at your own freedom to do what you did... You forgive in freedom and move on to greater freedom. Freedom is strength; you know you have it when you have the power to forgive."

Books

By Mary Mayer-Hennelly

to linger and never be forgotten can only be eased through forgiveness. Hurt is defined as a three dimensional pain because it is always personal, unfair and deep.

The process of forgiving is not instantaneous. A commitment to move on to a more positive life is essential. Smedes cautions that,

Can chicken soup cure a cold?

You're in the hospital. A grim-faced doctor stands over you as you lie in your bed.

"You have cryptococcal meningitis," he announces. Treatment will be costly and painful with convulsions and kidney damage as possible side effects.

At this point your grandmother, a woman with an old-folk remedy for everything from arthritis to winning a husband, interrupts. "Nonsense," she says with a wave of the hand. "What she needs is a nice hot bowl of homemade chicken soup."

You may not be faced with a life-death situation, but lung researchers in Florida report chicken soup actually works for a cold. As for "cryptococcal meningitis," Chinese researchers used garlic and found it nearly as effective as the standard treatment. Why the dramatic effect from garlic? Perhaps because of its anti-bacterial properties, which make it useful in treating other infections.

Now the purpose of this information is not to make you run out to the store and buy garlic and chicken, or any one particular food, but to illustrate that all nutrients from food really do play a role in how our bodies function. You "are what you eat", so to speak. A missing nut or bolt can result in a computer breakdown; a missing nutrient can result in a body breakdown. Sixty trillion cells that make you need protein, vitamins, and minerals.

Skipping meals, non-nutritious snacks mean you body's running on "empty".

Food is to your body what gas and oil are to your car. The mileage and function of your car

The anonymous postcard

During my first full week on this job, while I was still trying to get accustomed to everything and learn names and phone numbers, I received a postcard in the mail that really brightened my day. The postcard was not signed and there was no return address so I don't know who to thank for the chuckles I got from reading it.

It was just one of those plain-white postcards and the address was simple: Local newspaper, Virginia Beach, Va. No zip code either. From that address, I'm not sure that it's my mail, but I'm glad I got it anyway.

The note on the back was handwritten in somewhat illegible writing, but I could still read it. It says:

"My niece is coming to Virginia Beach. Please put her in the paper and on local radio. She wants to meet the governor of Va."

Well, I just had to crack up. I have no idea who this person is or who his/her niece is, but I'd love to find out! Maybe the niece and I could go meet Governor Robb together. I've never had the pleasure of meeting him either.

Come to think of it, I'll bet none of my aunts or uncles have made it a point to announce my visits to the local media. I'm going to have to speak to them about that! And I know they've never made a public plea for me to meet any state governors. I've met Delaware Governor DuPont, but it was my own doing. I spent a whole week in Arizona and my sister never even offered to take me to see the governor.

LeCompte's Comments

By Cathy LeCompte

If you wrote that postcard and you're reading this note, thanks. You gave me a bright spot in an otherwise mundane task, opening the mail. I still have the postcard. I may even frame it and hang it here in the office as a memento of my first trying week as editor.

And I'm not laughing at you. There is no malicious intent at all. Actually, it's that kind of thing that makes the job fun. Believe me the laughs are all too few and far between.

It is obvious that that person really believes in the power of the press. With no return address or signature, the person thought that I could get his/her niece an audience with Chuck Robb!

Well, I'll do my best. Maybe I can have the handwriting analyzed and get a lead that way. I'd also better call the governor right away so he can leave several spots in his schedule. I don't even know when to make the appointment because the postcard didn't say how long the niece would be in Virginia Beach!

Now, I don't want a barrage of postcards like this with a host of outlandish requests. I don't intend to wall paper the room with them. But, every once in awhile, it's nice.

Bumper sticker wisdom

A recent weekend excursion to Cape Hatteras yielded a relaxing "mini-vacation" with no phone, TV's or radio stations. The locals talked slowly, drove slowly and moved through the business of life with a particular nonchalance. At times, I was compelled to buy a newspaper to find out who won Wimbledon and keep up with life in "civilization", but then I thought better of it. On our way back to Virginia Beach, however, when we got within radio transmission distance, we tuned in for the news. I came back a bit sunburnt, but no worse for wear.

One of my friends happened to notice a bumper sticker on a local's vehicle that summed up the situation appropriately. It read: "Cape Hatteras; where the world could end and it would take you three days to find out about it."

realistic they're being about their skills.

The counselors encourage the clients to do informational interviews with people in the fields they're interested in. Getting the knowledge from people who actually do the jobs they're interested in is very beneficial. The center also has research materials available on a wide range of careers.

The educational counseling comes into play, most often, after the person has decided on a career pursuit, and wants to know where to get the best education for that job.

"We're familiar with what the colleges have to offer in a particular major," Talbott said.

The financial aid counseling goes hand in hand with the educational help. Most of the people they see are going back to school after a long break and aren't financially able to bear the cost of education. The EOC has all the forms for federal financial aid and information on different types of grants and scholarships that are available. What makes their service different from what's available in the college's financial aid office, is that these counselors have time to help in the form completion process.

"The financial aid forms are long and similar to tax forms and many people don't want to go through the hassle of filling them out," Talbott said. "We have the time to help them fill out the forms and receive some aid that they might otherwise have missed out on."

The EOC has outreach offices in Norfolk, Portsmouth and Chesapeake that are open one day a week, to make it more convenient for people in those cities to get help.

They also do special seminars wherever they're invited, to reach more people. They speak to military groups on pre-retirement and spouse employment, and to parents of high school students in a financial aid workshop.

Talbott says she thinks one of the main benefits of the center is that it can put some order and guidance into the pursuit of a career.

"We help people get things down on paper," she said. "We can help them objectively look at their skills and choose a career accordingly."

Council keeps its cool on resort revamp project

By Lee Cahill
City Council Reporter

City Council remained cool toward a proposal on how to fund resort area revitalization but left $5 million in the revised Capital Budget for engineering and design of the Atlantic Avenue Beautification project.

Council members appeared reluctant Monday at a work session to commit themselves further without a specific plan on what is to be done. A specific plan is what is expected to come out of an Urban Land Institute study which should be available in August before Council considers its next five-year Capital budget in the fall.

Councilman Robert G. Jones relayed to Council the proposal by the Resort Area Advisory Commission to establish a resort area revitalization fund with 50 percent of the net receipts derived from resort area revenues. These revenues were estimated at $10.3 million a year. That would mean half of that, or $5 million or more a year, would go directly to resort area revitalization instead of to the general fund.

Companion proposals included the elimination from the Capital Improvement Plan the Atlantic Avenue Beautification Plan for which City Manager Thomas H. Muehlenbeck had recommended $8.6 million in the revised budget; submission to the public through a referendum the choice on additional funding for the resort revitalization; and changing the focus of resort revitalization from Atlantic Avenue to a more comprehensive area.

Jones and Councilman Robert Fentress, who had met with the Resort Commission, were both receptive to the proposals. Jones said it makes sense to use profits from the resort to revitalize the resort which in turn would produce additional revenues.

Fentress said that the Commission is more interested in a long-range plan than a short-range plan which is the case in five-year Capital Improvement Plans.

The Commission, Jones said, is looking for a commitment from Council.

Council, however, was unwilling to make a further commitment because of the absence of a specific plan. Members also questioned the wisdom of establishing a method of funding for one area of the city different from others.

For his part, Muehlenbeck said that other departments generate revenue and that the city would have to look at what effect the funding would have on other departments, such as the police which generate funds through fines.

The city would also be financing capital projects with operating funds on a pay-as-you-go basis. The city traditionally has financed capital projects with locally issued bonds, federal revenue sharing funds, state funds (schools and roads), and other funds of this type.

Budget Reduced
The failure of the $72.8 million bond referendum for roads, schools and the city jail, however, forced the city to revise its budget from a total budget from $310.4 to $249.2 million.

In his revised budget Muehlenbeck includes $23,681,088 of the undesignated fund balance from the Operating budget of $50,336,011 to the Capital budget.

Cocktails are at 6 p.m. and dinner is served at 7 p.m. The play begins shortly after dinner is served. For reservation information, Sun readers should call 428-7220, ext. 118.

Myers

Past presidents and first ladies are among Myers' 60 cases.

had past lives. Then, Myers was able to get the substantial number of cases that he needed for more credibility.

Mary Myers said, "What we do is we get an identification on someone, then we go to the library and start looking through books. We find that it's not only the physiognomy that's similar, it's the life experiences and personality traits."

An interesting case came to the Myerses a few years ago. A woman who now lives in Reston, Va. told them that as a child in Scotland, she had dreams of a coffin being carried down a flight of stairs, past a fan-shaped window. The woman, Patricia Allen, would wake up from these dreams crying and her parents sent her to a psychiatrist.

Later, while riding on a train, Allen heard a voice say to her, "Emily Dickinson."

Allen's research on the reclusive 19th century American poet brought her to Amherst, Mass. and to the Dickinson home.

When the tour guide took Allen down a black flight of stairs where the Dickinson coffin was carried past the same fan-shaped window, Allen was almost overcome and felt that she might faint. But she knew she had found the answers she had searched for. A comparison of a picture of Allen with that of Dickinson shows an uncanny resemblance.

Joe Myers pulls out mounted pictures from his briefcase. He has a picture of the statue of Alexander the Great beside a picture of Thomas Jefferson. President Andrew Johnson is next to Lyndon Baines Johnson. Actress Aileen Quinn ("Annie") shares a flat with Fanny Brice. In their lectures, the Myerses show many more slides to substantiate their hypothesis.

Myers maintains that he has a practical purpose for his research. It is not curiosity that motivates him.

"If you can't make it practical, if you can't use it to make the world a better place, then don't do it," Myers said.

"The future of the world really hinges on the understanding of reincarnation," he said. "If a man and a woman can choose to so purify their minds and bodies, they could become parents to a superior being that could become a spiritual leader."

The Myerses, who are deeply religious, believe their findings can have a great bearing on Christianity.

"It makes Christianity the expression of the man Jesus entering the world again and again," Mary Myers said.

"Reincarnation is simply another word for eternal life," she said. "I can talk to a Pentecostal or any Fundamental Christian without mentioning the word reincarnation and they believe everything we believe. We just get hung up on semantics."

Many people still doubt the validity of the Myerses' work, although through their lectures and television appearances their following is growing.

Joe Myers says, "If we were frauds, then we'd go around searching for pictures that looked like somebody. That would be utterly stupid. I don't know that you could ever do it, because you'd have to match faces, ears, hands, handwriting, personality traits, natural urges, the whole bit."

The Myerses see their research as establishing reincarnation as natural law, because through pictures and handwriting analysis, the cases can be tested. The Myerses think this natural law can benefit international relations.

"We're dealing with natural law so that the Russians and the Americans can realize that we're not killing each other, we're killing ourselves," Joe Myers said.

"The Beach" at Chrysler Museum?

NORFOLK—"The Beach," an exhibition of 20 photographs by Ray K. Metzker and 15 photographs by Duncan McCosker, opened at The Chrysler Museum on July 2 and will continue through September 8. Both artists have been drawn to the beaches because of the rich diversity of human and environmental interaction to be found and captured there.

Their subjects are at home at the beach, and more open to the public eye than they would ever otherwise allow. "There's a real mystery surrounding most figures if you just look at them carefully," states McCosker in a recent interview published in the San Diego Museum of Photographic Arts' Member's Quarterly. "When you scrutinize them, they often look very strange, as if they came from another planet."

McCosker's photographs share the same, seascape scenario as Metzker's and belie the photographers' agreement that there is a certain "magical quality" implicit in capturing a bather engaged in the joy of cooconing within his temporary habitat. Yet McCosker's photographs, taken in California and Hawaii, have a metaphysical ring to them. The scene is more a focal point than are the characters. Whether his picture is one of children hiding behind a dune as their mother peers over her shoulder, or of two men standing knee-deep in water having a conversation, the entire scope of the beach's landscape continually orders his composition.

The Chrysler Museum, Olney Road and Mowbray Arch, Norfolk, is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Admission and parking is free.

depend on the quality of gas, oil, and tune-up. If you keep your body tuned-up with proper nutrition, exercise, and rest, it will take you through a lifetime.

Still not convinced? You say you eat a balanced diet? Consider these facts from U.S. Government figures:

- The majority of people do not get the so-called "Recommended Daily Allowances" of nutrients from their diets.

- 500,000 lives per year could be saved and 19 major health problems improved by as much as 80% if we were to eat even these low daily amounts of nutrients.

While research indicates improving our diets can help us feel better and live longer, so far no evidence indicates nutrition can help you look like Chris Reeve or Cheryl Tiegs. Even vitamins can't do everything.

Old inn shows charm of Beach

Under new ownership, the Seashore Inn, located at 1040 Laskin Road, has received the Award of Merit for 1985 from the Council of Garden Clubs and the Beautification Commission of Virginia Beach.

Old time Beach residents will remember the property formerly known as the Golf Ranch Motel, nestled under towering pine trees on three and a half acres surrounding the 9th hole of the Cavalier Golf Course—a real exception among the “concrete jungles” many other hotels are today.

The property is operated by Tarbuton Associates, Inc., and although Tarbuton admits the expansive lawn and landscaping require a full-time gardening staff, he adds, “...it's one of a kind. To have this kind of land right in the middle of a resort area is unheard of in this industry. But the beauty and serenity of the setting is spell-binding, bringing back old friends year after year and attracting those looking for a special character and atmosphere, that of charming old Virginia Beach.”

Muehlenbeck salary will increase

City Manager Thomas H. Muehlenbeck has been granted a salary increase of $4,190 a year, from $80,810 to $85,000.

City Council Monday afternoon in approving the increase, also raised his car allowance from $300 to $400 a month.

The increase amounts to a 5.2 percent raise in salary. However, with the additional car allowance, the total percentage increase comes to 6.7 percent.

City employees this year received a cost-of-living increase of five percent starting Sept. 1.

The changes in Muehlenbeck's salary and car allowance are retroactive to June 1.

Council made the adjustment following its annual review of its contract with Muehlenbeck.

National Guard medals awarded

Eight members of the 1st Battalion, 111th Field Artillery, Virginia National Guard, were awarded medals recently in ceremonies at Fort Pickett.

First Sergeant Melton Lowery, of Ravenwood Road, Virginia Beach, and Staff Sergeant William K. Hammack, of Gullick Drive, Fort Monroe, received the Army Achievement Medal “for outstanding achievement” as First Sergeant of Headquarters Battery, and Gunnery Sergeant of B Battery, respectively.

Three other Guardsmen, all members of Service Battery, Norfolk, also were given the Army Achievement Medal “for exceptionally meritorious service.” They are: Sergeant William D. Lowery, Jr., of Halsey Avenue, Chesapeake; Sergeant Larry D. Cuffee, of East 28th Street, Norfolk; and Sergeant Henry E. Evans, of North Tomcat Court, Virginia Beach.

The awards were presented by Lieutenant Colonel Wiley F. Hughes, III, of Richmond, 1st Battalion commander. The Battalion, one of the oldest in the state, is known as “First Virginia Artillery.”

Japanese Beetle alert

By Jay Means

McDonald Garden Center In case you haven't noticed, Japanese beetles are on the rampage right now in Tidewater. They are the beetles with the iridescent bronze wing covers and metallic green body. Japanese beetles seem to feed on just about everything in sight, skeletonizing the leaves and flowers of more than 200 species of plants. Some of their favorites in our area include roses, hardy hibiscus, grapes, filberts, lindens and Crepe Myrtle.

Japanese beetle control is relatively safe and easy, there being a number of methods from which to choose. Beetle traps are easy to use but only provide partial control. The beetle is lured to the trap by a bait, which contains a sex attractant and scent. It's best to place the trap as far from your ornamentals as possible in order to keep the beetles away from your plants.

Spraying or dusting your plants with Sevin offers good control. Sevin is a “contact-type” insecticide which must touch the beetle to be effective. Two or three applications are usually necessary. Once your plants have been sprayed, avoid wetting the foliage for several days so as not to wash the insecticide off.

A better and more long-term control would be to use Milky Spore. You see a Japanese beetle lays its eggs in the soil in late summer. These eggs hatch and the grubs feed on grass roots, hibernate over winter, then feed on your grass roots again in the spring. The adult beetle finally emerges from the soil in summer.

Milky spore is a bacterium which kills the grubs. It typically is applied to turf areas in a powder form where it takes approximately two years to become fully effective. But once applied, it lasts for 20 years. Milky spore is most effective when you, along with your neighbors use it. This gives larger scale control so that beetles from other gardens don't fly in. Get your beetles under control today!

Race will benefit Maritime Museum

The Virginia Beach Maritime Historical Museum will host two events on Saturday, July 13. The “Sunrise Run” is sponsored by the Beach Chapter of the U.S. Life-Saving Association and the Tidewater Striders. Proceeds of the race benefit the museum.

The run begins at 7 a.m. at the museum on 24th Street and Atlantic Avenue, continues to the end of the boardwalk and then back to the museum.

Plaques with the museum logo will be awarded to the first three finishers in each age group. Each participant will receive a T-shirt designed by Rick Romano.

Age groups for the event are: Men 1-12, 13-19, 20-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-49, 50-59, 60 and up; Women 1-19, 20-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40 and up.

The entry fee is $8 after July 6. Entry forms may be picked up at the museum. Checks should be made payable to Virginia Beach Maritime Museum and mailed to P. O. Box 24, Virginia Beach, Va. 23458. The race director is Kent Hinnant and coordinator is Charlie George. Sun readers should call 495-2516 for more information.

The museum is also sponsoring a program on July 13 entitled “What does the Coast Guard do for you?” Lt. Marvin Pontiff from the U.S. Coast Guard Safety Office in Norfolk will talk to young people, ages 8-13, about today's Coast Guard and its role in their lives. A slide show of various rescue demonstrations will be presented. The attendance is limited to 25. Sun readers may register by calling 422-1587.

New logo store opens at Beach

A business called Logo Lil's has set up a home in Virginia Beach. This new company offers fine, customized monogramming services to Hampton Roads.

While some local larger department stores may offer monogramming on purchases, Logo Lil's provides the services to anyone desiring to personalize wearing apparel for all ages, and linens for the home.

Utilizing a computerized monogram/embroidery machine, a wide variety of styles and sizes are available for adding a "touch of elegance" to favorite articles for yourself or gifts for special occasions.

Because of demanding business, Logo Lil's was forced into purchasing a computerized 12-head monogramming embroidery machine with capabilities of punching it's own tapes. This new capability allows Logo Lil's to create a custom logo on the premises. This fully computerized machine has the capability of running off as many as 1,000 shirts a day.

Logo Lil's is also equipped to provide a complete line of organizational apparel, with appropriate logos, patches and numbering, such as team uniforms, club jackets and gold style shirts. The president of Logo Lil's, Inc., is Phil Ostrander, whose mother, Lillian Ostrander, inspired the company name. Mr. Ostrander stated that with the installation of the new equipment, large monogramming orders will have a greater turnaround time, than ever offered before in the area.

Bank appoints Eaton

Brenda C. Eaton, has been appointed as Vice-President of the new Princess Anne Commercial Bank in Virginia Beach, scheduled to open in late August.

The announcement was made by Homer W. Cunningham, Chairman of the Board for this new locally owned and administered financial institution.

Eaton comes to Princess Anne Commercial Bank with 17 years of experience in the banking industry. Formerly Vice-President at Bank of Virginia Beach, she began her career at the Bank of Virginia, where she held a variety of supervisory positions.

Eaton explains that Princess Anne Commercial Bank is a state-chartered, independent organization that is part of a network of banks known as Independent Banks of Virginia.

"This innovative structure gives us the financial strength and lending power of a large bank, with the personalized service usually found only in a community bank."

She is currently expanding her professional skills through enrollment in the Virginia Bankers School of Bank Management at the University of Virginia. She is an active member of the National Association of Bank Women.

Justice heads medical records

VIRGINIA BEACH—Jennifer Justice has been named director of medical records at Virginia Beach General Hospital by hospital president, W. Earl Willis.

Justice, 24, is a native of Georgetown, Ky. She is a graduate of Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond with a bachelor's in health record administration (1983) and an associate's degree in health record technology (1981). She is also certified by the American Medical Record Administration as a registered record administrator.

She was formerly director of health information services at Southeastern Kentucky Baptist Hospital in Corbin from 1983 to 1985 and was associate director of the medical record department at the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville in 1983.

As director of medical records, her responsibilities include planning and coordinating a staff of 30 specialists working with medical records, quality assurance programs, diagnostic-related groups, and a cancer registry.

Beach faces...

A bevy of beauties

All in a days work

Not everyone was relaxing on the beach on Independence Day. These construction workers were hammering to the music on the site on 19th Street. Sun photo by Cathy LeCompte.

Inner tubing

Shannon McClure, (7), from Richmond, had a great time riding the waves last weekend. She displayed a big smile—even with missing teeth. Sun photo by Bill McBride.

Tuesday on the beach

Despite overcast conditions and a nip in the air, the beach had a few die-hard sunbathers. Sun photo by Cathy LeCompte.

Thursday on the beach

Beating the heat

Every part of the beach was crowded and the bike path and boardwalk had their share of congestion as well. Sun photo by Cathy LeCompte.

Library sponsors movies, demonstrations

The Virginia Beach Public Libraries will sponsor a series of movies and demonstrations for July.

On Tuesday, July 16 at the Oceanfront Library at 11 a.m., several children's movies will be shown. The program lasts approximately 45 minutes.

On Wednesday, July 17, at the Bayside Area Library, a program entitled "Personal Safety for Women" will be presented at 7 p.m. It includes a lecture and safety demonstrations. Advanced registration is necessary.

The Wappadoodle Puppets will perform at the Oceanfront Area Library on Wednesday, July 17 at 10 a.m. and at the Kempsville Area Library at 2:30 p.m. Then, on Thursday, July 18, they will be at the Bayside Area Library at 10 a.m. and the Great Neck Library at 2:30 p.m. and at the Windsor Woods Library at 7 p.m.

An afternoon movie, "The Hobbit" will be shown on Wednesday, July 17 at 3 p.m. at the Great Neck Area Library.

The Virginia Beach Police will present a K-9 Corps demonstration at the Great Neck Area Library on Tuesday, July 23 at 10 a.m.

For more information, Sun readers should contact Mary Chelton at 427-4321.

Jewell named to chamber administration

Robert W. Jewell Jr., recently retired from the U.S. Navy and a former commanding officer of NAS Oceana, has been named Senior Vice President, Administration of the Hampton Roads Chamber of Commerce.

The announcement of his appointment was made by HRCC President Bill J. Center to the Board of Directors.

Jewell, who will assume his duties July 15, will be responsible for all internal administrative matters, Center said, as well as membership acquisition and retention, communications and publications and programs of the small business and regional development divisions.

During his tenure at Oceana, 1980-82, Jewell was quite active in chamber work at Virginia

Sorority inducts members

The Omicron Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa, an international honorary sorority for women educators, recently inducted six new members. These new members are Lynne Coates, Special Education Director at Independence Junior High School; Josie Collier, Guidance Director at Independence Junior High School; Kathy Halteman, Gifted Program teacher at Old Donation; Brenda Schultz, EH teacher at Independence Junior High School; Lois DeLoatch, Guidance Counselor at Independence Junior High School; and Leann Hicks, Industrial Arts teacher at Independence Junior High School.

The sorority also awarded its 1985 scholarship to Susan Krall, a graduate of First Colonial High School. She will attend Longwood College and major in education.

Beach. He was an ex-officio member of the board of directors, a member of the Military Affairs Committee and was heavily involved in the Neptune Festival.

"Throughout my military career I have worked closely with the business community and the chamber of commerce," Jewell said. "My strong suit is management and administration and I look forward to using it in this new challenge."

Jewell has a bachelors degree in Political Science from Old Dominion University and has been awarded many decorations and honors throughout his distinguished military service.

He and his wife reside in Virginia Beach.

Bank of Tidewater opens doors July 8

VIRGINIA BEACH—Bank of Tidewater opened its doors for business for the first time on Monday, July 8, as a result of approval received June 28 from the Federal Reserve Board and FDIC. Commonwealth of Virginia approval was granted June 6. The announcement was made by Bank of Tidewater's Board of Directors.

Located at 612 Nevan Road in the Hilltop section of Virginia Beach, Bank of Tidewater is headed by longtime area banker Burt Harrison. Betsy Duke is vice president and chief financial officer. Larry Harcum is vice president and chief operations officer.

Hours of operation will be from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday.

Bank of Tidewater's mission is to satisfy the medium and small borrowers and serve Virginia Beach citizens with full service banking," said Harrison.

Bank of Tidewater's $4 million of stock was offered February 14, 1985. The 400,000 share offering was oversold by $500,000 in only 22 days.

Permanent headquarters will be located in Hilltop on Laskin Road and additional branches throughout the city are planned.

Tractor-trailer driver sought

Virginia Beach Crime Solvers is offering up to $1,000 for information leading to the arrest of the man who tried to abduct a 21-year-old woman on June 26.

About 5:30 p.m. that Tuesday, the woman was walking east-bound on Laskin Road, near Linkhorn Park Elementary School, when a tractor-trailer stopped. The driver got out and, with a map in hand, asked for directions into Norfolk. As she approached the driver to answer his question, he pulled a knife and forced her into the truck. After a struggle in the sleeper section of the cab, the woman was able to free herself and escape through the passenger door.

The driver was described as a 25-30-year-old white male, 5 feet 10 inches tall and 165 pounds. He had curly sandy blond hair, a light colored mustache, and a 2 or 3 day growth of beard. He wore tinted glasses with gold frames.

The tractor was a white cab-over-engine with sleeper, brown interior and had green lettering on the sides. The trailer was full size and silver in color. The rig was last seen heading westbound on Laskin Road.

Council

to make up for some of the loss. The remaining fund balance would be used for the budget reserve ($25,154,915), and the Arts Center reservation ($1.5 million).

Monday Council adopted ordinances reflecting the changes in the Capital Budget recommended by Muehlenbeck. To Muehlenbeck's changes, Council added its own:

- Reduce the Atlantic Avenue Beautification allocation from $8.6 million to $5 million. This won't make any immediate change in the project because most of the dropped expenditure is scheduled for years beyond 1986.

- The remaining $3.6 million will be transferred to the Kempsville Area Library expansion and the Bayside Recreation Center which were both unfunded in the revised budget.

Otherwise the revised budget contains a percentage distribution for each category of projects approximately the same without referendum funding as it did with referendum funding.

Also, funding for capital projects from the undesignated general fund balance shows an increase of $11,581,088 over the five-year budget period.

The Atlantic Avenue funds would finance only the complete design and installation of underground electrical/phone utilities.

Sky Watch

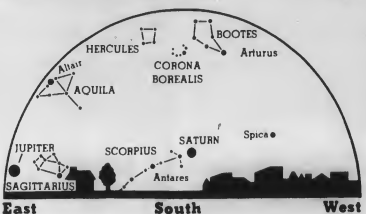

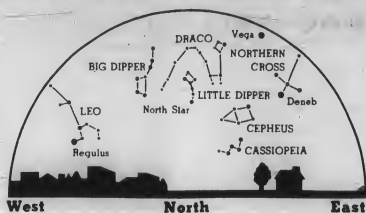

A Monthly Feature Prepared By The Science Museum of Virginia

JULY SKY CHARTS: To use these sky charts, face either north or south and hold the charts directly in front of you with the horizon on the bottom. The charts show the brightest stars and planets between the horizon and the part of the sky directly overhead during the early evening hours this month.

CONSTELLATIONS: Several bright stars can be found in the southern sky this month, each in a different constellation. Beginning in the east, look for Altair in the constellation Aquila the eagle. Along with Vega and Deneb (see north-facing chart), this bright star forms the most noticeable star pattern in the summer skies — the Summer Triangle. Look high overhead to find Arcturus, the bright star that marks the tail of the kite-shaped constellation, Bootes. In the west, notice Spica, part of the constellation Virgo.

The northern sky's most prominent constellation, the Big Dipper, can be seen standing on the tip of its bowl high overhead. Beneath the Dipper to the west, look for the bright star Regulus. Regulus marks the "paw" of the constellation Leo the lion which will gradually sink beneath the western horizon as the month progresses.

PLANETS: Two bright planets dominate the southern evening sky this month.

The ringed planet, Saturn, is visible between Spica and Antares. On July 26, Saturn will become stationary before it resumes its eastward motion across the sky.

Jupiter is the brightest planet and can be found low in the east in the early evening sky. It rises about sunset and is found in the constellation Capricornus.

CELESTIAL EVENTS: Look for a waning gibbous moon to pass within 5° of Jupiter on July 4 in the evening sky. Later in the month, on July 26, the waxing gibbous moon will pass

3° south of Saturn. There are two full moons this month and the second full moon to occur in the same month is called a "Blue Moon." Blue Moons are rare — the last time one occurred was December, 1982 and the next will be in May, 1988.

MOON PHASES:
 ○ Full Moon: Tuesday, July 2.
 ○ Last Quarter: Tuesday, July 9.
 ● New Moon: Wednesday, July 17.
 ○ First Quarter: Wednesday, July 24.
 ○ Full Moon: Wednesday, July 31.

Snyder named "Woman of the Year"

Dedication to the job, the Navy and the community has earned Virginia Beach resident Mrs. Judith A. Snyder, a sign painter, the "1984 Woman of the Year" award at the Navy Public Works Center, Naval Station, Norfolk.

As one of five female journeymen at the Center, Snyder actively encourages her counterparts to excel to their fullest career potential. Her understanding of the sensitivity to women in a traditionally male work force has led her to pursue a harmonious work environment where there is dignity, mutual respect and professionalism. As a member of the Metal Trades Council she is credited with bringing managers and union officials together in discussions resulting in solutions to problems that sometimes occur when men and women work side by side.

A sign painter for 21 years, Snyder has earned a performance award as well as praise by Navy commands for her superb attention to detail in her work during her nine and one-half year career at the Center. Also, she has contributed cost effective suggestions through the Government's Beneficial Suggestion Award Program.

As president of the PWC Recreation and Welfare Association, for a second term, Snyder is responsible for coordinating numerous activities throughout the year for more than 2,000 employees.

A member of the Center's Federal Women's Program Committee and the Equal Employment Opportunity Committee, Snyder says, "I promote all the organizations of which I am a member with the principle that equality is important, but accountability, self pride and confidence, and initiative are the key ingredients for a solid foundation in life."

Snyder is an active member of Navy Wives Clubs and participates in fund drives to benefit children's hospitals, the underprivileged and those in need within the Navy family. She contributes her time and talent to the Naval Helicopter Association to enhance rotary wing interest nationwide and in the Navy. Other endeavors include Boys and Girl Scouts of America and Little League baseball. Additionally, she has volunteered her services to the James Chisholm Foundation to help renovate a house to be used by families of patients in Portsmouth Naval Hospital. The proposed Chisholm House is similar to a Ronald McDonald House.

The Snyders reside in the Kempsville area of Virginia Beach.

Beach resident saves government dollars

Virginia Beach resident, Edward A. Krupa, a mechanical engineer employed by the Norfolk Naval Shipyard Public Works found a new method to save the Navy's energy and earned a $3,310 Beneficial Suggestion Award.

Krupa put his creative talents to use after he noticed that the old method used to preheat feed water for boilers was producing steam but also allowing valuable energy to go unused. Solving the problem took him to the drawing board where he conceived and designed a method to use waste heat in a heat exchanger which resulted in a large energy savings from two of the shipyard's industrial air compressors.

Since the yard's air compressors generate a tremendous amount of heat during the production of compressed air, Krupa took advantage of this readily available source of energy and designed a system whereby heat can be removed by circulating water through heat exchangers.

The heated water is then cooled in a saltwater-to-freshwater exchanger and recirculated. The new heat exchanger extracts the heat generated by the compressors and transfers it to the boiler feedwater.

This new method was placed in operation in April 1985 and is projected to result in a first-year savings of $87,751.

Weekend craft show draws over 5,000

By Cathy LeCompte

The Cricket on the Hearth Craft Show drew 5,361 visitors at the Virginia Beach Pavilion. In its seventh year, the show is sponsored by the Preceptor Alpha Xi Chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. The proceeds of the event go to the Spina Bifida Association.

This year's show featured 152 booths and exhibitors from all over Hampton Roads and some from out of state. The types of crafts exhibited varied greatly, but it is safe to say that the event featured something for everyone. There were jewelry items, quilts, woodwork items, needle point and painting, just to mention a few.

The attendance increased by over 600 this year. Last year's beneficiaries were the Multiple Sclerosis Society, the Statue of Liberty Fund, the Christian Action Agency, the Salvation Army and a sorority member and a Norfolk girl who needed artificial limbs.

Beach residents serve on ODU Alumni Board

NORFOLK—Two Virginia Beach residents have been named to top positions on the Old Dominion University Alumni Association board of directors.

Robert L. Fodrey Sr., class of 1957, has been named vice president for development. Donna S. Morris, class of 1977, has been named vice president for governmental and public relations. They will serve one-year terms, from July 1, 1985 to June 30, 1986.

Also, Karin M. Gifuni, class of 1984, was recently elected to serve a three-year term on the ODU Alumni Association board of directors.

Bowyer to direct Virginia school planners

E. Carlton Bowyer, Virginia Beach Public Schools assistant superintendent for operational services, has been elected director of the Virginia delegation of the Southeastern Regional Council of Educational Facility Planners. The election was held during the group's annual spring regional conference in Greenville, N.C., in May.

CEFIP is an international organization whose members serve with public school divisions, colleges, and universities. The organization provides members with an opportunity to share ideas, methods, and suggestions in planning construction and maintenance of school buildings.

Bowyer will lead the Virginia delegation to the CEFIP international conference in California in October and to the next spring regional conference. Any conference agenda item pertaining to school construction in Virginia will be Bowyer's responsibility to coordinate with Virginia CEFIP members.

Bowyer is in charge of the Virginia Beach school division's school plant services, building security, purchasing, and planning and construction services. He has served as assistant superintendent for operational services since 1978. Some of the Virginia Beach school construction projects he has supervised since that time include the new Cox High and Rosemont and Providence elementary schools.

Bowyer is currently directing construction of the new Salem Junior High School and Birdneck Elementary School, as well as planning construction of Salem High School and Parkway, Rosemont Forest, and Salem elementary schools.

NSU plans celebration for 50th anniversary

VIRGINIA BEACH—Norfolk State University will celebrate its 50 years as an institution of higher learning on Saturday, July 27 at Camp Pendleton in Virginia Beach from 1 to 8 p.m.

Sponsored by the University's Athletic Foundation, the day will feature a Texas style barbecue, roasting four pigs. Other entertainment includes pony rides, volleyball, horseshoe pitching, a Las Vegas night (with a casino auction), a square dance show, magicians and comedy skits.

The air will be filled with music. Scheduled to perform are a country blue-grass band, a jazz band, a country band with square dancers, and some blues and gospel groups.

The tentative schedule for the day is as follows:

Magicians - 2 to 3:30 p.m. and 4:30 to 5 p.m.

Comedy skits - 2 to 3:30 p.m., 3 to 3:30 p.m. and 4:30 to 5 p.m.

Country bluegrass band - 2 to 4 p.m.

Jazz band - 4:30 to 5 p.m., 6 to 6:45 p.m.

Country band - 6:45 to 8 p.m.

Casino (adults only) - 3 to 8 p.m., auction from 6 to 6:45 p.m.

Donations are $15 for adults and $10 for children over six. Children under six are admitted free.

Proceeds from the event benefit NSU's Athletic Foundation. NSU officials would like to see attendance reach 2,000.

Creative kids start newsletter in Pennsylvania, Virginia Beach

By Cathy LeCompte

Two years ago, an enterprising 10-year-old named Ben Mutzbaugh decided to start a newsletter written by and for kids his age. Thus, the Enola Area Newspaper was born in Enola, Pa. on October 8, 1983.

And because his cousin, Kenny Mutzbaugh, of the Windsor Lake Apartment Community in Virginia Beach, is interested in writing as well, Virginia Beach is another city to be incorporated by Ben's paper.

Recently, the bi-monthly paper's name was changed to the U.S. Press, because of its expansion outside the Enola area. "Most of our branch offices are based because we have friends or relatives in those cities," said Ben Mutzbaugh, now 12. "We have a good chance of getting a branch office in Cameroon, Africa and a potential one in Denver."

The 7th edition of the paper just came out in June and the 8th edition will come out in August. The August edition should feature news about Virginia Beach.

"We're planning to have a story about the fireworks at Mount Trashmore," Ben said.

The U.S. Press is a one-page newsletter with stories that interest the children writing them. They write about the space shuttle, track star Jesse Owens and the legend of Ground Hog Day. Ben says there are plans to expand the newsletter to more pages, but not in the immediate future.

"We already took a vote and decided to expand to more pages," he said. "But we just can't do it right now because of copying expenses."

The newsletter is free and therefore must generate funds from other sources. They've had one successful ad campaign and plan to have a carwash to raise money.

The K-Mart in Enola, Pa. bought a full, back-page ad in the U.S. Press. Ben had one of his artists design several ad layouts and the officials at K-Mart chose the one they liked best.

"We have some very good artists," Ben said. "We charged K-Mart $10 for the back page."

The students put out their newsletter with very little adult guidance and the idea was Ben's. His mother, Paula Mutzbaugh, types the newsletter and checks for grammar, punctuation and spelling. Ben says that most of the time his mother does a good job. But one time she missed a typographical error.

"We had a title that said New York as the 'biggest' city instead of the 'biggest' city," he said, laughing.

The U.S. Press staff has a weekly meeting at Ben's house to discuss business matters and to use Ben's extensive collection of reference materials for their stories. Ben doesn't usually assign his reporters stories, he says. He lets the people pick something they'd like to write about. The reporters from the branch offices aren't required to attend the weekly meetings, of course, since they take place in Pennsylvania. But Ben tries to keep in touch with his key people at the other branches as often as he can.

"I talk to Kenny and find out if there is anything he'd like to write about in the next edition," Ben said.

Ben, who aspires to a reporting career, has learned early on that managing a staff can be difficult. He incorporates some recreation into the staff meetings to keep everyone interested.

Charley's presents "Chapter Two"

Charley's Dinner Theatre on 37th and Atlantic will present Neil Simon's "Chapter Two" for their next performance. The dates are July 25, 26, 27, 28 and August 1-4. Currently, "Honestly Now" is showing. A special showing of "The Impossible Years" will be presented on Monday, July 29 at 6:30 p.m. There is no dinner for this performance. The other shows serve cocktails at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. The show begins shortly after dinner is served. For reservations, Sun readers should call, 428-7220, ext. 220.

CBN sets up fund

VIRGINIA BEACH—A $100,000 scholarship fund set up by William J. Dooner, member of the CBN University Board of Regents, has been announced by CBN President Bob Slosser. The Dooner Scholarship Fund will assist approximately five students each year with up to one-half of their tuition costs, Slosser said.

"Scholarship preference will be given to applicants who are active in the Roman Catholic Church," Slosser said. "They must demonstrate financial need, academic merit and a personal commitment to Jesus Christ."

Dooner Scholarships will be awarded by the CBN Financial Aid Committee, and will be available to students who are admitted to the university on a regular status and carry at least eight credit hours per quarter.

CBN University, a Christian institution at the graduate level, currently in its seventh year of operation, has schools of Biblical Studies, Communication, Education, Public Policy, Business Administration and an Institute of Journalism.

The university was accredited by the Virginia State Council of Higher Education in 1984. It is affiliated with The Christian Broadcasting Network, which has its headquarters here.

CBN students, who range in age from 22 to 67, represent more than 27 Christian denominations from across the U.S. and several foreign countries.

"Up with People" to appear at Naval Amphibious Base

The international cast of "Up with People" will appear at the Base Theater of the Naval Amphibious Base on Wednesday, July 24 at 7:30 p.m.

Five international casts of 125 students each from 22 countries are participating in "Up with People" this year. Students are chosen from over 10,000 applicants.

The group has visited 6,000 cities and towns in 47 countries since its incorporation 15 years ago.

While they're in Tidewater, they need host families to provide places for the students to stay.

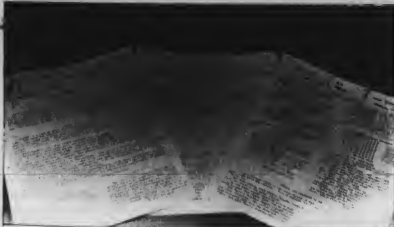

For information concerning being a host family, contact Ben Allred at 464-7540.

This year's "Up with People" show is titled "Beat of the Future" and features a medley of songs from Ragtime, the Big Band era, early Rock and Roll to the music of the future.

Tickets are $7.50 for adults and $5.50 for students, senior citizens and children. Tickets are on sale at NAB, NAS Oceana, NS Norfolk and Mother's Records and Tapes in Pembroke Mall. There is a $1 discount for advance purchase.

"We have our meeting for an hour and a half and then we go outside and play kick-ball," Ben said.

While Ben said most of the articles they write are "good news" stories, he has asked some of his better reporters to tackle tougher issues. One girl wrote a story about drunk driving. Another reporter looked at the problem of drug abuse. In the future Ben and his cousin Kenny will combine their talents to do a story about Norfolk Southern's bid to purchase Conrail. Kenny will be the contact here in the Virginia Beach/Norfolk area and Ben will look at the issue from its effect on railroading in Pennsylvania.

As his writers are getting older and better, Ben sees the U.S. Press moving toward doing more "news" stories, rather than reporting information from encyclopedias.

"We're going to try to do more current stories," he said. "We want to have a section in every edition where we have news from each branch office."

Anyone interested in more information about the U.S. Press can write to U.S. Press, 772 Valley St., Enola, Pa. 17025, attention Ben Mutzabaugh.

Copies of the newsletter are available at Sunshine Books in Timberlake Plaza; Hallmark Cards and Gifts and the Book Store in Holland Plaza.

Beta Sigma Phi is an international, non-profit organization which promotes service, social and cultural activities for women. Locally, there are 20 active chapters in Norfolk, Virginia Beach and Chesapeake representing more than 250 members. Internationally, the organization has more than 250,000 members. It was founded in 1931 in Abilene, Kansas by Walter W. Ross.

The craft show was the idea of member, Carol Mulkey, who introduced it to the Preceptor Alpha Xi chapter in 1978.

Since then, a long list of organizations have benefited from the show. They include the Children's Hospital of the Kings Daughters, the Tidewater Guild for Infant Survival, Virginia Beach General Hospital and the Norfolk S.P.C.A.

Exhibitors donated over 120 door prizes that were given away at this year's show.

The Spina Bifida Association, this year's beneficiary, helps children born with the crippling spinal disease. It is a defect in the spinal column resulting from the failure of the spine to close properly during prenatal development. It is estimated that a child is born with the illness every hour in the United States.

Junior Tennis camps set

The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation will be sponsoring a Tennis Camp at Bayville Park for youths between the ages of 12-15 years. The Tennis Camp will be held the week of August 5th, Monday-Friday from 1 to 4 p.m. The cost of the camp will be $10 for the entire week.

This program is designed for all levels of play. To receive complete information on how to register, Sun readers should call 467-4884.

Notary Group elects McKinney

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Mrs. Myrtle Louise McKinney, 813 Hilltop Rd., has been elected a membership in the American Society of Notaries, a national nonprofit organization of persons who hold the office of notary public.

Mrs. McKinney is a Legal Assistant for J. Peter Holland, III and Tom C. Smith, Attorneys At Law. According to Mrs. McKinney, "the office of Notary Public would appear to be a simple one. However, the position of Notary is becoming more complex and it is reassuring to know that there is an organization where the Notary can receive help."

Singles group sponsors dance

"Nite Life", (the social alternative for singles) is sponsoring a dance on Saturday, July 20 at FOP Lodge, #8, 976 S. Birdneck Road at 9 p.m. Disc jockey Vernon Withall will play contemporary music. The cost is $5. For more information, Sun readers should call 467-5469 after 5:30 p.m. of research and case histories of more than 35,000 patients.

They conclude that vitamin E:

- prevents thrombosis, or clotting in blood vessels

- opens new channels of blood supply when other blood vessels are blocked thus improving circulation to damaged tissue

- aids healing of burns and ulcers

- prevents scar tissue, eliminating deformities and contractures after burns and injuries

- assists normal clotting in wounds

- improves action of insulin in diabetes

- reduces the need of the cells for oxygen

- strengthens muscles

- improves the action of the ovaries and relieves symptoms of menopause

- increases the activity of male sperm cells

- helps maintain blood supply to the fetus, preventing miscarriage

Perhaps one of the most far-reaching effects of the Shutes' research, and one that has already turned the tide, is their work with heart and vascular disease, the leading cause of death in the United States, claiming over a million lives each year, largely from coronary thrombosis.

One of the two original cardiologists in America, Dr. Paul Dudley White, once wrote that when he graduated from medical school in 1911, coronary thrombosis was unknown. According to Dr. Shute, with the milling of flour was lost the most significant source of vitamin E in the diet. At the same time white flour was introduced coronary thrombosis appeared.

"It is too useful for too many things," Dr. Evan Shute wrote in his book Common Questions on Vitamin E and Their Answers.

"That has always been one of its major difficulties. Once understood, however, it will be as universally used as antibiotics and insulin."

less, Pommies Frites' adventures are no less bizarre than those of his master, but Bond seems more comfortable writing from the perspective of the animal than from that of Monsieur Pamplermousse.

I pictured Monsieur Pamplermousse somewhat as Peter Sellers playing Inspector Clouseau. The attempts on Monsieur Pamplermousse's life that create the mystery, and Monsieur Pamplermousse's miraculous escapes, are almost slapstick in nature. Our hero's difficulties with the products of Poupées Fantastiques, discreet manufacturers of inflatable rubber doghouses and other items, are especially memorable. When Monsieur Pamplermousse substitutes his car battery for eight 1.5 volt batteries, the results scandalize the chambermaid and enthrall Madame Sophie.

Although Monsieur Pamplermousse is definitely not a book for children, its hero is reminiscent of Paddington Bear. He is well-meaning, but somehow his innocent actions result in reactions and complications that he could never have foreseen.

Michael Bond's novel is flawed and slightly out-of-control, but his characters are sufficiently likeable that I look forward to another book with Monsieur Pamplermousse and Pommies Frites.

Beach gifted students "discover" college life

VIRGINIA BEACH—Twenty-three residents were among the 62 students from Virginia, Maryland, the District of Columbia and Kentucky enrolled in the second session of "Discovery '85," a two-week residential college program at Virginia Wesleyan College for gifted and talented fifth through ninth graders which ended July 12.

The participants were introduced to college life by staying in the dormitories, eating their meals in the dining hall, and being taught by six full-time VWC faculty members. Each morning was devoted to intensive coursework. In the afternoons and evenings, the students participated in a variety of enrichment activities both on and off the campus.

The highlight of the second session was a trip to the Williamsburg Shakespeare Festival. In addition to the trips and comradery, topics from ancient technology to computers and complexities of modern war are discussed by the seventh, eighth, and ninth graders. The fifth and sixth graders studied world cultures which resulted in a mock international negotiation session with role playing.

Dr. Daniel W. Graf, VWC professor of history, directed the program. Ms. Deborah L. Fields, guidance counselor at Hines Middle School in Newport News, was head resident counselor, and Anthony C. Busic, a 1985 VWC history graduate and fall ministerial student at Duke University, was the assistant resident counselor.

Dr. Seuss exhibit enchants Chrysler

The magical world of Dr. Seuss is featured at The Chrysler Museum Seaboard Center from July 8 through Sept. 13. The exhibit includes 50 drawings and watercolors created by Dr. Seuss for his 16 major published books from 1939 to 1969. In addition to the 50 drawings and watercolors from the Dr. Seuss books, political cartoons and several Flit advertisements will be exhibited.

The Chrysler Museum at Seaboard Center is located on the corner of Atlantic and Plume Streets in downtown Norfolk. The hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sundays and weekdays from 12 noon to 6 p.m. Admission is free.

Any season is planting season with container grown plants

By Jay Means

McDonald Garden Center
Greater beauty and privacy for your home's garden may be achieved through proper landscape planning. In creating your garden, many paths to beauty are within everyone's reach. You may decide to do your own planning and planting or employ professional help from McDonald Garden Center.

There are periods of the year that in the past have been considered "out of season." Progressive nurserymen now offer most varieties of shrubs and trees growing in containers. Since installation from containers can be done at anytime of the year, it is best to plant only as much each time as can be carefully cared for during the establishment period. The plants you need, in containers are "in season" any season. Plants dug from the nurserymen's field grown stock which have been balled and burlapped often suffer some transplanting shock, especially during "out of season" periods. Trees and shrubs planted in your landscape taken from containers sustain very little transplanting shock - their complete root system is undisturbed. They are simple to transport and may be easily cared for when there is a brief day in planting.

McDonald Garden Center offers their complete selection of plants in containers - from tiny ground covers and perennial flowering plants to beautiful specimen shade trees.

During the chill of the winter or the intense heat of the summer it doesn't matter - container grown plants are plantable. This is nature's way of cooperating with modern professional nurserymen to provide healthy green growing plants you might otherwise miss. Choose your favorite plants in flower this season and make them a part of your planting plan.

Celebrate V.B. Pops Week

VIRGINIA BEACH—July 15 through 21 will be designated Virginia Beach Pops Week. During this high intensity, seven-day period, the members of the Virginia Beach Pops will present a series of performances.

Two free, small group, evening performances will be at the 25th St. Stage. On July 18 the "Good Vibes" percussion ensemble will perform from 7-9 p.m. On July 19 the "Back Bay Mud Hens All Star Dixie Land Band" will perform from 7 to 9 p.m. These concerts will take place under the auspices of the Ocean Occasions, coordinated by the Neptune Festival, Inc., under the direction of Sheila Jones.

Also, they will present a free orchestra concert at the 25th St. Stage on July 21 at 7:30 p.m. This concert will be part of the 31st annual Lotus Festival celebration, co-sponsored by the Cape Henry Women's Club. This concert is made possible by Ocean Occasions assisted by the Arts and Humanities Commission of Virginia Beach.

The Pops will participate in staffing "Take Five", a series of lectures, demonstrations and recitals for the Governor's Magnet School at the Pavilion on five consecutive afternoons from July 15-19. "Take Five" is made possible by funds from the Governor's Magnet School and the Arts and Humanities Commission of Virginia Beach. Lectures and recitals will be open to the public each afternoon from 12:15 to 2:34 p.m. For additional information contact: Carol Noona 428-7677.

Gallup, Baker are Wesleyan scholars

Gallup

Baker

VIRGINIA BEACH—Amy Frances Gallup and Heather Leigh Baker, both of Virginia Beach, are among the first nine Wesleyan Scholars at Virginia Wesleyan College.

The Wesleyan Scholars, who will participate in a new Honors Program being initiated this fall, will receive awards ranging from $2,700 per year to full tuition scholarships of $5,200 per year. These awards are renewable each year, as long as the required grade point average is maintained.

Gallup, one of three 1985 salutatorians at Frank W. Cox High School, is an accomplished pianist and served as accompanist for the chorus and spring musicals at Cox High School.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Gallup is the recipient of a full tuition scholarship.

Baker, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow W. Baker, is a graduate of Kempville High School where she was enrolled in the gifted and talented program. She chaired many community and school oriented activities and was a member of the National Honor Society. Her scholarship is for $14,000.

"The inauguration of the Wesleyan of the Wesleyan Scholars Program represents a significant commitment by Virginia Wesleyan College to provide substantial financial aid and extraordinary educational opportunities for gifted students," said Dr. William M. Wilson, vice president for academic affairs and dean of the college.

"The arrival of the first group of Wesleyan Scholars on campus in September, 1985," Wilson added, "will be the culmination of many months of diligent efforts by many constituents of the college, from those who have generously provided scholarships to those who have planned the academic program. We look forward to this time with high anticipation."

Arts center offers summer adult classes

A series of summer classes and workshops will be held at the Virginia Beach Arts Center beginning the second week in July. The summer session of Art Studio will include instruction ranging from hand-tinting photographs to porcelain pottery to drawing from a model.

Most of the courses run for four weeks and are held in the Arts Center's studios at the corner of 18th Street and Arctic Avenue in Virginia Beach. Ceramic courses run for six to eight sessions. All of the instructors for ArtStudio are highly-qualified professionals, and many are award-winning artists.

Norfolk painter Jackie Merritt will give a daylong painting/drawing workshop on Saturday, July 20.

Courses and workshops range from $25 to $35 in tuition. For further information and a complete schedule, Sun readers should contact the Arts Center at 425-0000.

New publishing co. to open at beach

Falcon Communications, Inc., an Oklahoma City-based publishing company, has announced its intentions to expand operations into Virginia Beach, according to the company's chief operating officer Fred Hall. The plans are part of Falcon's current expansion program that will establish the company in more than 100 cities during the next fiscal year.

Falcon currently edits and distributes three books which are designed to attract new businesses and conventions and stimulate travel and tourism, "The Menu Book," a guide to the finest regional restaurants, "The Major Office Building Directory" for retail and commercial properties and a lifestyle magazine highlighting news of the arts and entertainment.

James B. Ricketts, tourist development coordinator for the Tourist Development Division of the city of Virginia Beach, says a restaurant directory would be very useful. "Oklahoma City's version of 'The Menu Book' is a very fine publication. This type of book will certainly be useful to visitors and residents alike in Virginia Beach."

Tail plans are to publish a local version of "The Menu Book" with the option of adding the other books Falcon offers. Falcon is also looking at the possibility of producing new publications which are individually designed to promote Virginia Beach's distinctive features.

Falcon, which began operations in Oklahoma City in June, 1983, is currently in a rapid stage of growth and is considered to have the potential of being one of the fastest growing companies in America.

Pioneer Federal S & L to open Tidewater branch

Pioneer Federal Savings and Loan Association announced it would open a branch at 3037 Shore Drive in Virginia Beach.

The office will be the Hopewell-based S&L's first branch outside of the Richmond-Tri-Cities area and marks the beginning of a major expansion effort. Appropriate regulatory approvals have been received.

Pioneer Federal now has seven offices located in Hopewell, Colonial Heights, Chester and the Chesterfield County suburbs of Richmond.

The federally-chartered stock savings and loan's assets have more than doubled over the last five years to and have increased 42% in the past two quarters. Assets as of March are up to $409,712,543.

"With our move to Tidewater this summer," Pioneer president George R. Whittemore said, "we intend to continue our long tradition of serving primarily as a consumer retail financial institution."

"We've studied all of the Tidewater market extensively," Whittemore said, "and have concluded that there is a considerable position for us there."

Mutual Federal's Hilltop office moves

Mutual Federal Savings and Loan Association's Hilltop North Shopping Center Office will relocate July 15 to a free-standing building on the shopping center perimeter. The Association's new location is the former Dominion Bank Office, 1616 Laskin Road.

Samuel W. Hill, Mutual Federal President, said that relocation to the 2,550 square foot facility will greatly enhance our delivery of banking services to the public." Hill added that "The new facility allows Mutual to expand its service offerings into new areas afforded under financial institutions deregulation."

In the new Hilltop Office, Mutual Federal will feature drive-up banking, expanded business hours, charged lobby facilities, safe deposit boxes, and office-side parking.

Highfield to head arts education group

The Virginia Chapter of Young Audiences announced the hiring of a new Executive Director. Del Highfield of Virginia Beach assumed the helm of the non-profit arts education organization on July 1. Young Audiences is a state-wide organization based in Norfolk.

Highfield was formerly Director of Community Education in Gloucester County. A native of Pontiac, Michigan, he has resided in Virginia since 1980.

The primary mission of Young Audiences is to bring the performing arts to school aged children throughout the state. To that end, professional actors, dancers, musicians, and singers travel the state conducting a variety of workshops, dialogues, and performances for school children. Typical ensembles sponsored by Young Audiences include string, brass, woodwind, jazz, percussion, ballet, theater, and vocal groups.

Young Audiences has experienced rapid growth in recent years. The hiring of an Executive Director is a symptom of that growth. Both the annual budget and the number of performances have almost doubled in just three years. The number of children experiencing Young Audiences programs is expected to exceed 275,000 this year. "I am enthusiastic about joining Young Audiences at a very exciting time in its thirty year history," says Highfield. "Exposing young people to quality performers is extremely important if they are to become well rounded adults and if they are to become the audiences of tomorrow."

Divaris Real Estate announces Cellular One lease agreement

VIRGINIA BEACH—Charles Esresg, senior vice president of Divaris Real Estate, has announced the leasing of about 5,000 square feet on the fifth floor of One Columbus Center in Virginia Beach to Cellular One, a national company that now offers cellular telephone service in South Hampton Roads.

According to Esresg, whose company is the exclusive leasing agent for the 11-story high-rise located in the Pembroke area of the city, the lease agreement places Columbus Center One at more than 90 percent occupancy.

Esresg notes that only 12,000 square feet on the penthouse floor and 6,000 square feet on the sixth floor of the building remain available for lease.

Tickets still available for Virginia Food Festival

Ticket sales for the fourth annual Virginia Food Festival are brisk, according to festival co-chairman C. S. "Chuck" Saunders of Richmond, but tickets are still available to the event scheduled for Wednesday, August 7 from 4-8 p.m. at the State Fairgrounds in Richmond.

The menu for this year's festival, which promotes Virginia food products and the people who produce them, will include tasty lamb, veal, apple, peanut, egg and dairy dishes including ice cream in addition to grilled pork chops, roast beef, barbecued chicken and corn-on-the-cob. Seafood dishes will be served and will include Monk Fish Tempura and Salade de Calmar, or squid salad. Virginia wines will also be featured at the all-you-can eat event.

Tickets to the event are $15 each and must be purchased in advance by Wednesday, July 24. No tickets will be sold at the gate. For the ticket price, festival-goers are treated to unlimited servings of food and beverage as well as all the entertainment. Children 4 and under will be admitted free. Tickets may be purchased from area agribusiness leaders or by writing the Virginia Food Festival, P. O. Box 718 Richmond, VA 23206. Payment must be included with each order. Additional information is available by calling (804) 643-3555.

Cox student attends camp

Jason Schugardt of Virginia Beach is attending the 39th session of the New York State Music Camp at Hartwick College in Oneonta, New York, which runs through August 10. He attends Cox High School and will be a 10th grader in the fall.

Through the program, students aged 10-20 have the opportunity to perform some of the great music from all periods of composition, from classical to modern. The campers attend classes in several music subjects and have the opportunity for private instruction and music counseling.

A series of concerts and recitals are given by campers throughout the summer. Students perform in several areas, including orchestras, ensembles, and choirs.

Vying for a spot

Thirteen young women from several cities in the Tidewater area competed for five spots in the Round Card Girl competition held at the 13th Street stage on Sunday, July 14. The Four Olympian boxers Evander Holyfield, Meldric Taylor, Pernell Whitaker and Mark Breland made their way into the picture as well. They seem to enjoy their surroundings. POW's MIA's to be honored VIRGINIA BEACH—By presidential proclamation, Friday, July 19 has been designated as National POW/MIA Recognition Day.

To observe the occasion, Naval Air Station Oceana, the City of Virginia Beach and the Virginia Beach Jaycees will hold a wreath-laying ceremony honoring all former U.S. prisoners of war and those missing in action. The ceremony will be held at the Flame of Hope Monument on Oceana Boulevard in Virginia Beach at 10 a.m. on July 19.

Officiating at the ceremony will be Captain L. F. Norton, Naval Air Station Oceana Commanding Officer, and representatives from the City of Virginia Beach and the Virginia Beach Jaycees. Other dignitaries and some former prisoners of war who are living locally or serving the Nation on active duty in the Tidewater area are expected to be in attendance for this special ceremony. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Parks and Recreation offers pre-season football clinic

Coaches and players (ages 10-high school) who want to sharpen their football skills may attend a pre-season football clinic July 16-25. Sponsored by the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation, this clinic is for any player or coach who plans to participate in any organized league. The clinics begin each night at 6 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. at Plaza Junior High School. Assisting in the clinics will be the coaching staffs of Plaza Junior and Kellam High School.

The first three evenings of the clinic will concentrate on kicking and offense. The topics of concentration on July 23-25 will be on skills at defensive and offensive work stations.

The clinic is free. Further information can be obtained by calling 467-4884.

Jazz artists play at Oceanfront Library

Hester's Melody Makers will give a performance in the Oceanfront Area Library (1811 Arctic Avenue) on Friday, July 26, at 11 a.m. This performance continues the summer series of concerts provided by Young Audiences of Virginia, Inc. Hester's Melody Makers will highlight the different styles of jazz including Duke Ellington greats, the hot sound of Latin American rhythms, swing from the big band era and the distinctive sound of New Orleans. Sten readers can call the library at 428-4113 for more information.

Merritt, Kronick exhibit works

A series of oil on canvas paintings by Norfolk artist Jackie Merritt will be on view July 1-31 at the Municipal Center Gallery, located on the second floor corridor of the Virginia Beach City Administration Building at North Landing Road and Court-house Drive. Gallery hours are weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The show is free and open to the public.

On view are works from her Seashell Study series, which takes an in-depth look at shells from a unique viewpoint that emphasizes decorative and sensual color and line. The artist explains, "I like taking an idea and pushing it as far as I can, to where all of its possibilities are known. Through this process I am better able to judge my own growth."

Merritt received her master's degree in painting from the University of Wisconsin, and has 13 years of experience teaching art on the college level. She was artist-in-residence for the Virginia Beach Public School System from 1983 to 1984. Her works have been exhibited throughout Virginia and New York.

Virginia Beach artist Harriet Kronick will exhibit her oil paintings and pastel drawings July 1-31 at Humana Gallery, a "satellite" space for art sponsored by the Virginia Beach Arts Center. The gallery is located in the dining room at Humana Hospital Bayside, 800 Independence Blvd. and is free and open to the public 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

Trained in Pittsburgh, Pa., in both commercial and fine arts, Kronick has been a portrait painter for 25 years. Her commissions include official portraits of area judges as well as of the famed psychic Edgar Cayce and his wife. She has taught courses in oils and portraiture for 17 years, and currently teaches at the Friends Meeting House in Virginia Beach. Several landscapes, a recent addition to her repertoire of images, are also on view at Humana Gallery, and are regularly shown at the Village Gallery, Virginia Beach.

College grads pedal to beach to boost Special Olympics

By Cathy LeCompte
Editor

Three recent University of Notre Dame grads, John Harknett, 21, John Shea, 21, and Steve Schneider, 22, biked their way from Astoria, Ore. to Virginia Beach to raise money and awareness for the Special Olympics.

They left Oregon on Thursday May 30 and arrived in Virginia Beach on Friday, July 29 at 24th Street. They took their bikes for the ceremonial dip in the Atlantic.

Representatives from several area Civitan groups were on hand to greet the young men, as well as Vice Mayor Reba McClanan who presented them with plaques of the emblem of the City of Virginia Beach.

Civitan International is an organization which promotes good citizenship and does work with the mentally and physically handicapped. The 1987 Summer Special Olympics will be co-sponsored by Civitan International and the University of Notre Dame.

The Southend, Ind. Civitans gathered pledges for the three bikers and local Civitan groups have followed suit. Southend, where the University of Notre Dame is located, has raised $4,000 for the cause. Frank Spicer, President Elect of the Norfolk Civitan Club said his group had raised about $1,000.

The bikers estimated that they covered about 4,300 miles. John Shea missed the middle portion of the journey because of a knee injury that had to be treated. But he met up with his friends again and finished the trek to Virginia Beach. They averaged about 100 miles a day.

All three men are avid bikers, but had to train in order to take on a cross country venture. They rode from Oregon to Chicago and back to warm up for the feat.

The bikers had interesting stories to tell. "We got chased by lots of dogs, but mostly we met a lot of interesting people," said Schneider. "Everybody was nice."

Frank Spicer, Sr., Walter Anderson, Mac McLoughlin and Betty Rhyme represented the Civitans at the event.

The bikers were escorted from Lynnhaven Parkway and Virginia Beach Boulevard to the oceanfront by Officer L. L. Chappel of the Beach Patrol.

John Harnett's parents and three sisters came in from Oregon to greet him and his friends at the end of their long ride.

They stayed ahead of schedule on most days, but their trip into Virginia Beach was slowed when Harnett had a flat tire in Suffolk. It was only the second flat tire occurrence of the trip.

The bikers kept in touch with their families throughout the seven week journey by using a toll free number provided by the South end Civitan organization. They set up the number at a business owned by one of the Civitans and they kept everyone posted on their progress.

Harknett said that they met a retired couple during their ride, who had been biking for 8 1/2 years.

"It got us thinking about what to do next," he said.

No bike trips are planned for the immediate future, since Schneider and Harnett will start work and Shea will start law school. But they have discussed touring Europe later.

Now, the bikers said, they want to get some rest.

Additional fees are charged for some special activities.

Community Relations Director named

By Cathy LeCompte
Editor

To improve the relationship between the community and the Virginia Beach Public Schools will be the task of the recently appointed Community Relations Director, said Dr. E. E. Brickell, Superintendent.

Last Tuesday, the School Board appointed Dorothy Barber, current director of community relations for the Trenton, N. J. school district, to fill the post. Her appointment is effective Sept. 1.

Brickell said the school administration has studied the need for such a position for three or four years.

"This position is more than just dispensing information," Brickell said. "It's more than P.R. It's getting the community involved in our schools."

The school systems current public information office would remain intact, but come under the new director's jurisdiction. The restructuring will also create two more communications specialist positions to work under Barber. Brickell said the new office will make the channeling of information easier.

"All requests for information, whether from the press or the public, will go through that office," he said. "They'll be able to direct the request to the right people."

During his 19 years at the helm of the Virginia Beach school system, Brickell has seen many changes occur. He has seen the task of gathering the information about the schools grow from a one-person job to a task large enough to accommodate a department well. With the increase in

DeBellis to head Rotary

A. James DeBellis, director of Economic Development, City of Virginia Beach has assumed the presidency of the Virginia Beach Rotary Club. John Fahey, an Associate Professor at Old Dominion University, who led the Club in 1984-85, relinquished the Club gavel to DeBellis at the Club's annual installation banquet, held at the Pavilion Towers.

Fahey's final remarks praised the members for their solid support during the year which led to the selection of the club as "best club" in the 76 club district.

New Virginia Beach Rotary Club officers for 1985-86 are: President, A. James DeBellis; Vice President, Edwin C. Kellam, Jr.; Secretary, Donald A. Dahlman; and Treasurer, William H. Thumel.

MDA races set

Catch the action on the water in Virginia Beach at the site of the third race in the Subaru HiFly Boardsailing Series, a national tour of 12 boardsailing regattas for amateur and recreational boardsailors, at the Ramada Inn on the beach Saturday and Sunday, August 3-4.

Sponsored by Subaru of America, Inc. and HiFly America, Inc., this series brings the fun and excitement of boardsailing together with the challenge of a funboard race course for recreational sailboard enthusiasts.

The regatta will be limited to 90 participants and will consist of four elimination heats, leading to one final championship heat. Trophies will be awarded for 1st, 2nd and 3rd place in each heat and the championship final.

All competitors are eligible to win the grand prize - a new HiFly 600 CS sailboard - to be awarded by random drawing at the awards banquet.

Entry forms and details are available at all HiFly and participating Subaru dealer locations and will be taken on a first-received, first-registered basis; a $20.00 registration fee is required and HiFly will provide all equipment, except harness and harness lines.

Boys Club activities cure summer blues

On Aug. 2, members are invited to show off their bowling skills and win a trophy at the Bowling Bonanza.

On Aug. 9, boys should bring sleeping bags to the Overnight. This night of fun will start at 8:30 p.m. with a roller skating party, then move to Putt Putt golf and wind down back at the Club. Parents should pick their boys up at 8 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 10.

Watermelon Day is Aug. 16

when members are challenged to eat all the watermelon they can. Aug. 16 is also the closing day for the Boys Club Summer Program.

The Boys Club of Virginia Beach is located in the United Way Family Center at 4441 South Blvd. Sun readers should call 499-2311 for more information. Yearly membership costs $30.

Psychic abilities help you find niche

By Cathy LeCompte
Editor

Hunches, gut feelings, intuition, dreams—we all have them at one time or another. Learning how to "tune in" to that psychic energy can help us find our niche in life, says spokesman for the Inner Peace Movement, Patrick Kilhenny.

"We all have something we do really well," said Kilhenny. "If we can perceive in an inner sense, we can find out what our niche is."

Kilhenny is a traveling lecturer for the Inner Peace Movement, a group founded in 1964 by Dr. Francisco Coll. Several small chapters of the club are in Virginia Beach, meeting once a week in a member's home. Kilhenny estimates that over 2 million people have participated in the program worldwide.

One of the group's basic beliefs is that we all possess, in varying quantities, intuition, vision, prophecy and feelings. One of those four is our strongest quality—it comes to us more easily and naturally than do the others—but we have all four. The idea is to tap into the one we do best, our niche, and to use it in our lives on a daily basis.

"My first is intuition," said Kilhenny. "I get ideas that just come to me and I go with them, they solve the problems."

Kilhenny became interested in the Inner Peace Movement when he heard a radio talk show. At the time, he was working as a nuclear engineer. He was very successful, but also unhappy.

"I kept saying I was going to quit, because I knew that it wasn't for me," he said.

By trusting his hunches and using his intuition, Kilhenny entered several successful business ventures, including stints in the restaurant business. He began lecturing for Inner Peace about six months ago and he teaches at the Americana Leadership College, an affiliate of the movement.

Kilhenny says it's interesting when he knows which one of the four traits is a person's strongest. By knowing the person's niche, he knows how to best deal with that person.

"I found it very helpful in sales," Kilhenny said. "If the person I was dealing with was an intuitive, I just stuck with the facts. If they lead with feelings, they wanted to keep it light and shake my hand a lot."

Jean Walker, who coordinates Inner Peace activities locally, said she is a visionary. And once she found that out, it changed her life.

Viet Nam vet heads memorial committee

Fred N. Tripp, Viet Nam Veteran and Virginia Beach attorney, has been elected President, by acclamation, of the Virginia Beach Veterans Memorial Committee, Inc. He succeeds William R. Kane of Fleet Reserve Association 166. Kane declined renomination, but will remain on the board of directors. Tripp is the immediate Past President of the Viet Nam Veterans of America Chapter 48. He is also serving as a member of the Virginia Korean-Viet Nam War History Commission, to which he was appointed by Governor Robb; he served as Immediate Past Commander of American Legion Post 35, Norfolk; is a member of VFW Post 4809 and a life member of Disabled American Veterans Chapter 20, Virginia Beach.

R. G. (Sam) Haidet, president of the Kempville Branch Number 99 of the Fleet Reserve Association, was elected vice-president of the Memorial Committee; William L. Myers, an Air Force veteran, was elected treasurer and James J. McKnight, secretary.

Other members of the board of directors are: J. F. McHone, a member of Submarine Veterans of World War II; Vincent Barresi, DAV 20; E. L. Dispennette, Submarine Veterans of WWII; Howard S. (Sam) Myers, Retired Officers Association; Harold Heischouer, DAV 20 (Mayor of Virginia Beach); Clyde Siler, American Legion Post 113; Kenneth Melson, American Legion Post 113; Avelino A. TCC grad believes things worth having are worth working for VIRGINIA BEACH—When Pat Kilmon graduated in 1983 from the secretarial science program at the Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College, she decided to reward her efforts with the purchase of a class ring—specifically, a signet. Much to her dismay, she found that no class ring was available with the TCC seal, so she decided to have one made to her exact specifications, even if it cost a great deal more than she had planned to spend.

"When you're my age," said Kilmon, "you either get what you want, or you don't get it."

The same kind of determination propelled Kilmon, 45, through the TCC word processing curriculum amidst full-time employment and family obligations and responsibilities.

"As an employee of C&P Telephone Company of Virginia," explained Kilmon, "I was temporarily assigned as a secretary to a division manager who suggested I pursue some type of higher education. My husband was already enrolled in courses at TCC and I thought, 'Why not?'"

Pat's husband received associate degrees in business management and accounting in you are capable of. My favorite course was a stress management course with instructor Rhoda Steelman. There were three of us women in there about the same age, and we had the best time. The instructor really had a knack at pulling us together, getting us to benefit from our common experiences."

Kilmon is in her sixth year at C&P Telephone Company of Virginia, but she is no longer involved in the word processing aspect of it. She is an administrative assistant/secretary to the district manager in charge of construction, working with more than 200 employees. She has also worked in public relations at C&P.

Kilmon still returns to campus for an occasional course, but now she enrolls in management courses. She also takes the time to deliver occasional lectures to TCC secretarial science classes, taking them on tours through C&P Telephone's highly automated offices.

"I tell them that I still believe it's true, that anything worth having, is worth working for."

Sailor of the quarter likes working with kids

"It is nice to be recognized," said Aviation Fire Control Technician First Class (AQ1) Merton Bearup, who was selected as the Naval Air Station Oceana Sailor of the Quarter for July, August and September. Bearup, who enlisted in 1977, supervises 75 people in the semi-automated test equipment work center (Mini-Sace) of the Aircraft Intermediate Maintenance Department (AIMD). Working three shifts, the work center repairs between 30 and 40 pieces of weapons equipment daily.

Petty Officer Bearup has held supervisory positions in the work center since reporting to AIMD in October, 1982.

"There are a lot of things to do and I enjoy the challenges and responsibilities associated with being a supervisor," said Bearup.

According to the Flint, Michigan native, involvement as a supervisor also means, "spending a percentage of my time counseling people on various job related and personal problems."

Bearup will refer some personnel to more qualified counselors depending on the severity of the matter.

"I try, as much as possible, to put myself in their position. What would I do if I were in that position? How would I react, how would that affect my work? If you can do that, it makes it easier to understand their situation," said Bearup.

Bearup puts that same empathy into working with outside organizations. Being active in the station sponsored Youth Development Program (YDP), Bearup has coached soccer and baseball for seven years. He is also the YDP special projects director. In that position Bearup is responsible for soliciting sponsors for sports teams and helping to find innovative ways to raise money for the non-profit organization.

"I'm contributing to these kids...I enjoy watching them change—in sports and in their personalities," said Bearup.

Starting his second tri-mester at Southern Illinois University which meets at the Fleet Combat Training Center, Dam Neck, AQ1 Bearup is working toward his bachelor's degree in occupational education. He is supplementing his education with liberal arts courses at Saint Leo College. He hopes to put his education to use by applying for a commission as a Naval officer.

Petty Officer Bearup, as Sailor of the Quarter, will receive a station plaque, a $50 savings bond donated by Sovran Bank, two tickets to Busch Gardens, dinner for two at Red Lobster, and a private luncheon with the Commanding Officer, Naval Air Station Oceana, Captain L. F. Norton.

Two more oceanfront concerts scheduled

The Jazz Ensemble of the U.S. 56th Air Force Tactical Air Command of Langley Air Force Base will perform Sunday, July 28 at 7:30 p.m. at the Norwegian Lady Plaza on 25th Street and Atlantic Avenue, Oceanfront.

Sunday, August 11 at 7:30 p.m. The Final Approach Band of the U.S. 564th Air Force Tactical Command will perform at the Norwegian Lady Plaza.

The hour long concert of golden oldies and contemporary hits is free and open to the public.

The concerts are sponsored by the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation and are free and open to the public.

to see that the public knows what we're doing, what our problems are and what we're doing to solve them, and to let the community know what they can do to help."

To fill the position, the administration conducted a national search. They received 150 applicants for the job.

Brickell outlined some of the duties the department will handle. Barber's office will be the main liaison between the school system and the Chamber of Commerce, to establish and strengthen the alliance between the schools and the private sector.

"I don't think we've gained all the benefits we could from the private sector/school partnership," said Brickell.

The office will work closely with the PTA and the Volunteers in Education to strengthen their impact on the community.

The Community Relations Department will also coordinate the efforts of Channel 28 — the cable education channel. Some of the projects will include writing public service announcements, producing a programming magazine and developing programs like a homework hotline or highlighting school board actions.

The department will design a speakers bureau, using the communications specialists from the public information office and the two new positions. They will solicit opportunities to speak at group meetings or community functions to increase the awareness of the school systems activities.

"They'll aggressively seek opportunities to tell the school's story," Brickell said. "Instead of waiting to be invited, we'd ask the community leaders to let us speak at their meetings."

Brickell said he also sees the office as connecting the past, the present and the future of the school system. By working with the people who have spent years in the school system, but who may not be with the schools 10 years from now, the office can provide some much needed foresight to help plan the direction the school system will take.

"It will be the bridge between what now is and what will be the school system," said Brickell.

According to Brickell, the essence of the department is, "to get the whole community involved, because everyone has a stake in the schools."

Trust your hunches

"I have to have a picture in my mind of what someone is talking about," she said. "If even one corner of the whole picture is missing, it's hard for me to understand. Knowing that has changed my whole life."

Kilheny said that Francisco Coll designed a picture with symbols to illustrate what he was talking about. The symbols show that ultimately, we should achieve a balance between the head and the heart or the conscious or the unconscious. People who learn too much one way or the other haven't found the niche.

Walker explained, "We all know people who only care about the facts and aren't in touch with their feelings. That person is leaning toward the intellect. Then there is the constant 'do-gooder' who is sensitive to everyone's feelings and who probably hasn't found the purpose in life. This person is leaning toward feelings."

In the group workshops, which consist of 3 to 10 people, participants are encouraged to share with each other the hunches or dreams they've had. Then, some group work with thought transference or meditation might be done to improve those skills. By working on the four traits, a person can become 100 percent proficient in all of them. Like other skills, they require practice.

The initial workshop, where the participant and the lecturer work on a chart to determine the strongest trait, costs $35. Each group work session costs $3. The Inner Peace Movement has a national information line in Washington, D.C. at 1-800-424-3670. Locally, for more information, call 340-2454.

Kilheny spoke at the Lake Wright Motel on Thursday, July 18 and at the Best Western Northampton Inn on Tuesday, July 23.

Veterans Association; and John Korba, Pearl Harbor Survivors Association.

Before turning over the gavel of president to Tripp, Kane congratulated the new officers saying "a president of any organization must depend on his officers and members for a successful presidency and in that regard, I have had excellent cooperation from this board and I know our newly elected president will receive the same cooperation." The election was held at the annual meeting of the board, July 8th.

The Virginia Beach Memorial Committee, Inc. is engaged in fund raising campaign to erect a monument to the veterans of the Tidewater area. The target date for the completion of the monument is November 11, this year and the cost is estimated to be between 200,000 and 300,000 dollars. The treasurer reported that the donations (which are tax free) have been slow but every sign indicates that rate and amount of donations will increase. The monument will be located on 19th Street opposite the rear entrance to the Virginia Beach Pavilion.

Tax free donations may be made to the Virginia Beach Veterans Memorial Committee, Inc., P. O. Box 3280, Virginia Beach, VA 23454.

Seascapes, folk art

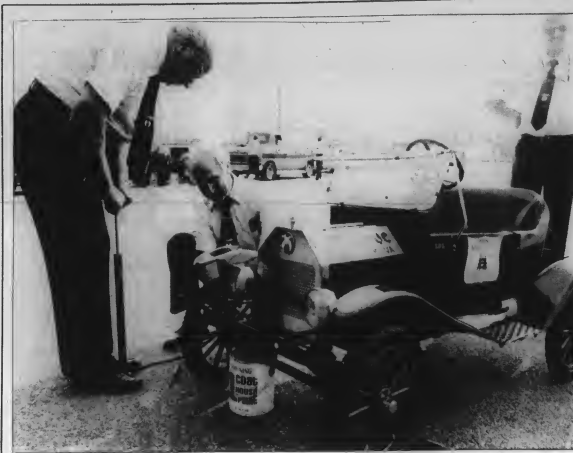

Two new exhibits at Maritime Museum

The Virginia Beach Maritime Historical Museum is featuring the Anton Otto Fischer Exhibit on loan from the U.S. Coast Guard Headquarters in Washington, D.C. It consists of eight original oil paintings by well-known seascape artist, Anton Otto Fischer (1882-1962). A U.S. Coast Guard Reserve Officer, Fischer was commissioned during World War II to re-create scenes of the Coast Guard's war experience. Titles such as "Worsening Weather," "To the Rescue," and "Pulling Away From a Blazing Tanker" clearly indicate the action-packed scenes depicted by the artist as well as the emotions evoked from these heroic deeds. Fischer studied at the Julian Academy of Art in Paris and his works have appeared on the covers of Saturday Evening Post, and Life Magazine. The exhibit will continue through Sept. 3.

Even though she is not a seafaring "old salt," Linda M. Erickson is a talented, imaginative scrimshaw artist, whose work is now on display in the Upper Gallery. This truly American folk art - the art of engraving or carving, derived from the old whaling days usually related to nautical activity and done on hard material - has been given a contemporary look by Ms. Erickson. The attractive, young artisan from Hampton creates not only traditional maritime scenes in black and white with her scalpel blade and ink, but also scenes in color of fantasy, science fiction, and her favorite subject animals. An entire case of Ms. Erickson's scrimshaw - including pieces done on ivory, tusk, bone, and synthetic materials - is on view through December 1985.

The Museum is open Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday 12 noon to 5 p.m. A small admission is charged at the door.

Perpetrator(s) of Charlestown thefts sought

Virginia Beach Crime Solvers is offering a cash reward of up to $1,000 for information leading to the arrest of those responsible for a series of thefts in the Charlestown section of Virginia Beach.

Between June 11 and July 6, 17 larcenies have occurred from vehicles parked in the Charlestown and Charlestown Lakes subdivisions. In most of these larcenies, thieves got into the vehicle by just opening an unlocked door but on a few occasions car windows were broken or pried open.

The items reported stolen in these cases were valued at over $2,000 and include 4 stereos, 2 equalizers, a Pentax camera, 40 cassette tapes, tennis equipment, a radio, calculator, briefcase, chainsaw, a marble chess game, 2 wallets, and money.

Anyone with information about these thefts or the location of any of the stolen property are asked to call Crime Solvers at 427-0000. If an arrest is made, the caller will be paid in cash. Rewards are also paid for information about any crime committed in Virginia Beach, the location of wanted people, and for the recovery of stolen property or illegal drugs. Names are

Archard attends jazz workshop

Sergeant First Class Tom Archard, an instructor at the Armed Forces School of Music, Little Creek, attended National Band Camps Summer Jazz Clinic from July 1 through 5.

The clinic was held at Illinois Wesleyan University in Bloomington, Illinois, and faculty included such renowned artists as David Baker and Jerry Coker.

Archard is a resident of Birchwood Gardens. On weekends he is featured trumpeter with Eric Stevens and the In Crowd, a variety combo. He is a member of the Norfolk Musicians Association.

Sizemore wins costume contest

Cathy Sizemore

Cathy Sizemore, 13-year-old daughter of Patricia and Danny Sizemore of Virginia Beach, won first prize in a costume contest held in Franklin, Va. at the Franklin Summer Party last weekend. The event was sponsored by the Franklin Retail Merchants Association.

Cathy is an eighth grader at Plaza Junior High School and was spending the week with former Virginia Beach student Karen Slate, who now lives in Zuni, Va.

She won the contest by dressing like rock star Madonna and received an electric ice cream maker for her efforts. She was interviewed live by the local radio station WYSR.

Gymboree celebrates National Clown Week

Gymboree, a national franchise of developmental play programs for children 3 months to four years of age and their parents, celebrates National Clown Week, August 1-7.

The center of attention for the week is "Gymbo", the lovable clown puppet mascot who is an integral part of the Gymboree program. Gymbo provides the "grand finale" of each weekly 45-minute class by leading the children in lively movement and music. The parent participation classes feature a creative mix of free-play on 40 pieces of tyke-sized gym-like equipment and age-appropriate songs, games and activities.

"The parents in our program love him as much as the children do," says Trisha Coulson, owner of the local Gymboree franchise of Tidewater. "Although clowns are usually depicted as adults, they do primarily child-like things. Gymbo seems to bring out the child in everyone. It's great for parents just to be silly with their kids. It's terrific for the parent/child relationship."

National Clown Week, sponsored by Clowns of America, is a time to recognize the positive contributions that clowns have made to wholesome family entertainment.

Gymboree has over 200 centers in operation in 27 states and Canada. For more information, readers may call Trisha Coulson at 481-4131.

Officers wives club meets

The Retired Officers Wives Society of Tidewater (ROWS) will hold a luncheon at the Diamond Club at Metro Park on August 8. The social hour begins at 11:30 a.m. with luncheon at 12:15 p.m. The program will be Sound in Motion. Make your reservations before 5 p.m., Monday August 5, by calling either 464-0905 or 464-1221.

International students find 'small world' at VWC

The Virginia Wesleyan College campus is a home base for 30 international students participating in the fifth International Youth Exchange Camp, sponsored by the Lions Clubs of Eastern Virginia. The students arrived at the college Sunday, July 14.

The participants, all college age, traveled from Austria, Belgium, Denmark, England, Finland, West Germany, Greece, Iceland, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Japan, The Netherlands, Sweden, Switzerland and Turkey, to attend the camp which is held to promote international understanding, and to give insight into current American culture.

Theme of the camp is "Walk With the World in History, Virginia." In addition to tours of local historical interests, the agenda includes trips to the FBI

Headquarters, Smithsonian Museums, and the U.S. Capitol, Washington, D.C. Recreation stops at Kings Dominion, Busch Gardens and Jungle Falls Water Slide are planned. There are also cook-outs, sporting events, dinners and dancing at Waterside and an "International Nite" talent show.

Lion Russell W. Moline of Norfolk is the youth camp director, and Virginia Wesleyan College's director of residence life, Ted Redlaczky and his wife, Janelle, are serving as camp counselors.

After the two-week camp, the students will then spend additional weeks in the homes of host families in the Hampton Roads area.

The camp runs from July 14 to July 27.

Winfield elected chairman of Tidewater March of Dimes

Brian P. Winfield of Virginia Beach was elected Chairman of the Tidewater March of Dimes at their annual awards banquet July 17 at the Diamond Club in Met Park. Mr. Winfield has served in numerous other capacities throughout his 7 years of service with the March of Dimes. He is president of Brian P. Winfield and Associates in Virginia Beach.

Other officers and members elected from Virginia Beach were Frederick R. Ellis, Vice Chairman, Floyd D. Swartz, Jr., Secretary along with Edward H. Karotkin, M. D., Clarence W. Keel, Michael A. McGrew, Robert J. Walker, Mrs. Paul H. Coussens, Richard C. Beale, Ralph E. Crawley, Michael J. Frost, John W. Greene, Billy R. Holbert, Bruce Rader, Michael G. Sellers, Mrs. Marjorie S. Crump and Rudolph R. Russo.

The chapter reached its first million dollar campaign. This increase will allow the chapter to expand local programs of education and medical service programs.

Credit union guarantees deposits for military

The Atlantic Fleet Federal Credit Union and Virginia Natural Gas recently announced a program whereby the credit union will guarantee the initial security deposit required by VNG for active duty military credit union members. The utility will provide gas service without any out-of-pocket initial expense to the AFFCU customer.

The credit union's Energizer Club II will reimburse the utility for any losses, costs or expenses incurred by VNG in providing service to club members up to $250 per customer. This program is similar to one established with Virginia Power in January and is effective immediately.

The exclusive agreement between Atlantic Fleet Federal Credit Union and VNG extends through mid-1986. The agreement allows for earlier termination by either party after 30 days written notice.

"Our program is organized as the Energizer Club II and is open to eligible persons at a membership fee of $15. The fee is not reimbursable or refundable," said Mr. F. F. "Johnny" Johnson, AFFCU Executive Vice President.

The credit union has 30,000 members and offers its services to all area active duty military personnel and their families. AFFCU hopes that the program will attract new members coming into the area.

E. C. Keeling, VNG vice president and general manager, said, "We are proud and pleased to participate with Atlantic Fleet Federal Credit Union in providing this service to our customers. We value our military customers and hope this program will make it easier for them to have natural gas service."

Virginia Natural Gas routinely waives the deposit for $150 when a customer has had previous service with the utility and has a good credit rating. A letter from another utility with which the customer has had utility service indicating good credit by the customer also is acceptable. There is also a connection charge of $12.90.

"Our credit union works hard to provide a variety of services to our military members," said Johnson. "We are proud to add this program to the other services we offer."

Steve Gordon (L) and Tyler Shelton (R) at For Any Event's new location in Best Square.

'For Any Event' opens second location

For Any Event, a party supply center located in the Pembroke Meadows Shopping Center on Independence Boulevard in Virginia Beach, has announced the opening of their second location in Best Square on Military Highway in Norfolk.

The operation, which is co-owned by Norfolk's Steve Gordon and Tyler Shelton, has proven to be such a success that the expansion was a "natural" evolution.

"Our second store is the second of a series," said Steve Gordon, co-owner, "we hope to have stores in every area throughout Hampton Roads."

"Although the competition in this area is strong, Tidewater is a healthy market for business growth and we feel confident that the area and our business will continue to grow," remarked Tyler Shelton, also a native of the area.

Both locations carry merchandise for almost any occasion, hence their name. Their products include all-occasion cards, stationery, balloons, gifts, invitations, decorations, disposable tableware and even a full line of catering supplies.

The store's most recent addition was the development of their "Wedding Aisle." For any Event now carries almost everything a bride needs—invitations, announcement cards, thank-you notes, decorations, cake knives, guest books, garters, cake toppers, candles, and custom printing services.

Covington receives Beach Plaza appointment

VIRGINIA BEACH—Gregory Covington has been appointed maitre d' for the Virginia Beach Plaza-Hotel. The announcement was made by Nick Economos, owner and general manager of the Virginia Beach Plaza-Hotel, one of two Plaza-Hotels franchised by the Howard Johnson Company.

As maitre d', Covington will oversee the banquet and dining room operations for the Plaza-Hotel.

Previously, Covington was banquet maitre d' for the Harbor Club in Norfolk, maitre d' for Sardis in New York City, head dining room captain, manager and staff coordinator for Howard University Inn Restaurant in Washington, D.C., restaurant manager and staff trainer for Sea Gally in Washington, D.C., and staff coordinator for Harvest Manor Dining Center in Brooklyn, New York.

Covington attended Norfolk State College and Tidewater Community College. He concentrated in business and hotel restaurant management. He resides in Chesapeake.

The Virginia Beach Plaza-Hotel is a full-service facility featuring 150 guest rooms, extensive meeting facilities, Nikolaia restaurant, and indoor/outdoor pool, ballroom, and Streamers, the area's largest nightclub.

Chamber publishes diners guide

The Hampton Roads Chamber of Commerce has published a diner's guide of area restaurants that promises to be important for both private and business entertaining.

"A Diner's Choice," prompted as "A menu guide to dining in Hampton Roads," is a 56-page booklet that details 34 restaurants in Norfolk, Portsmouth and Virginia Beach.

Each participating restaurant is spotlighted with valuable information concerning the establishment as well as a menu, complete with prices.

The restaurant information includes addresses, phone numbers, hours open, reservations, bar service, dress, credit cards, capacity, parking, type of cuisine, house specialties and other interesting information.

The booklets are on sale for $3.75 at all five Chamber offices, as well as area gift shops, supermarkets, Waldenbrook stores and retail book markets.

Divaris Real Estate leases Wayside Village

Divaris Real Estate's Retail Division has announced the completion of leasing for the 17,000-square-foot addition to Wayside Village, a complex of specialty shops in Virginia Beach, just east of Pembroke Mall.

The new addition, which added 13 new retail shops to the existing Willis Wayside furniture store and three other retail stores, officially opened in early June at 4220 Virginia Beach Boulevard.

According to Lloyd Markey and Mark Mousouris, leasing consultants for the Virginia Beach-based real estate firm, there is now only one shop available for lease, a 1,700-square-foot store in the original section of the complex.

"Our tenant mix was carefully selected to complement each other and yet at the same time offer a wide range of merchandise and services," noted Markey. Some of Wayside Village's new tenants include Churchill's Restaurant, Ballroom Plus, Miller's Custom Framing and Carriageway Antiques.

Markey notes that Divaris Real Estate's next project is La Promenade, 35 exclusive shops with a European aura now under construction at 1860 Laskin Road in Virginia Beach.

Barker, Campbell and Farley's latest acquisition.

Barker, Campbell & Farley purchases new building

VIRGINIA BEACH—Barker Campbell & Farley Advertising and Public Relations has announced the $1.3 million acquisition of a 16,000-square-foot office building located at 240 Business Park Drive near Newtown Road in Virginia Beach.

Agency principals Robert A. Barker, president, and executive vice presidents William T. Campbell and A. Palmer Farley, purchased the contemporary, two-story building, which was completed in 1983, and its 1.25 acre wooded lot from Dr. Robert F. Byrne of Community Physicians Inc. Divaris Real Estate served as broker while First Virginia Bank arranged the financing.

According to Farley, the agency will relocate to the building's 8,000-square-foot first floor in October. Community Physicians will continue to occupy the second floor under a lease agreement with Barker Campbell & Farley.

"Right now, we're working with architects on the interior design of our new offices. When complete, they will follow an efficient, ultra-contemporary layout," he said.

Barker Campbell & Farley presently leases about 4,500 square feet at 4456 Corporation Lane in Virginia Beach. Farley said the agency's continuing growth has made it necessary to relocate to larger facilities.

"We have been searching for a prime location for our rapidly expanding business, and this site is it. From our new offices, we will have easy access to all our clients in Hampton Roads plus good access to the airport, which is important to serving our many out-of-town clients," he said.

Local merchant serves national organization

Richard G. Rice, Vice President and General Manager, Alexander-Beegle, Inc., Virginia Beach, Virginia, has been elected to the board of directors of Menswear Retailers of America's Financial and Operations Group for a three-year term. Elections were held during the June 23-27 Financial and Operations Group Mid-Year Conference at Asheville's Grover Park Inn.

Menswear Retailers of America (MRA) is the national trade association for men's and boys' wear retailers and represents close to 5,000 men's wear specialty stores across the country.

MRA's Financial and Operations Group is responsible for developing management systems designed to help men's wear retailers increase their sales and operating profits. The Group holds its Mid-Year Conference each June and conducts a series of management seminars in conjunction with this event.

Established in 1956, Alexander-Beegle, Inc., is a three-unit business specializing in men's and women's distinctive clothing for collectors of the classics.

Young Audiences holds auditions for ensemble

The Virginia Chapter of Young Audiences will hold auditions at locations around the state during the week of September 9-13, 1985. The purpose of these auditions will be to accredit performing arts ensembles for the thirty-first season of the Chapter. Ensembles will be selected based upon their ability to communicate their art in dialogue performances as well as by the quality of their presentations. Presentations should be fifty minutes in length and be in performance/dialogue formats.

Young Audiences of Virginia is a state-wide non-profit organization dedicated to exposing children to professional quality performing arts. In 1984-85 Young Audiences sponsored 752 arts education performances and reached over 225,000 school aged children.

To receive an audition packet, ensembles should write to: Young Audiences of Virginia, Inc.; 1210 United Virginia Bank Building; Norfolk, Virginia 23510, or call (804) 623-5268.

A Crepe Myrtle blooming in every yard

By Jay Mean

McDonald Garden Center Crepe Myrtles are Tidewater's most popular summertime plant. With their flamboyant floral display in shades of red, pink, lavender, and white, there is no doubt that this "Flower of the South" turns Hampton Roads into a Crepe Myrtle Capital. Today there are thousands planted along our highways and byways, but their popularity is just starting to gain a foothold in our area.

Lagerstroemia indica or Crepe Myrtle as it is more commonly known, has been in cultivation for more than 1000 years. Its roots actually began in China, but it has been in cultivation in the U.S. for more than a century. It's often called the "Tree of 100 Days" because of its long flowering period.

What makes Crepe Myrtle so special? Well, there are many outstanding attributes of this fine plant that have made it worthy of special recognition. First, it can be considered a tree for all seasons. Although one of the last trees to leaf out in Spring, its garnet-tinged, young leaves are very attractive, turning into glossy, dark green leaves through Summer. Autumn color comes in shades of yellow, orange, and red. A purple flowering variety named Catawba with its fiery, orange-red Fall color, even rivals the traditional favorite, burning bush. (Euonymus alata). Winter brings a picturesque trunk and strong branching pattern to life with the Crepe Myrtle's bold, gnarled and twisted main stem with its exfoliating (peeling) bark.

The heat of summer certainly brings out the best in Crepe Myrtles as they begin their intense floral display. It seems just as our usual bounty of Spring color begins to fade, the Crepe Myrtle says, "Look everybody, it's my turn!" The hotter it gets the better they like it. They're very heat and drought tolerant as well as being quite disease resistant. This is true particularly today with the newer hybrid varieties gaining in numbers. Obviously, the cities of Virginia Beach and Hampton both made a good choice when they selected Crepe Myrtle as their official City Tree. In Norfolk it's the City Flower.

Our neighbors to the North and West are not as fortunate as we, as Crepe Myrtle is not Winter hardy much further North than Washington, D.C. and to the West, not much further than Richmond.

Crepe Myrtles can take on many sizes and shapes, from single stem trees to multi-stem shrub forms, to smaller dwarf types. Heights can range from under three feet to well above twenty-five feet. There are even varieties suitable for growing as hanging baskets. With over 100 varieties in existence, you can certainly find one to meet your own personal taste requirements.

It's easy to be successful with Crepe Myrtles because they are so easy to grow. Just remember to always plant in full sun. Pruning can be done just about anytime. Fertilize twice a year, once in early Spring before new growth starts and again in Fall, once leaves have begun to drop. For even faster growth, a late Spring fertilization can be added. An easy way to extend your Crepe Myrtle's blooming period and increase the color is by simply pruning off the flower heads as they fade. This will promote another flush of flower buds and keep your Crepe Myrtle blooming right into Fall.

A few of the varieties you may want to consider this year are: Regal Red-upright vigorous grower to 20 feet, having deep red flowers.

Natchez-multi-stemmed, small tree to 23 feet. The exfoliating trunk bark is dark cinnamon brown and spectacular throughout year. White blooms.

Catawba - a dense globe-shaped shrub to 11 feet with abundant dark purple flowers. Brilliant orange-red Fall color.

Potomac - upright branched tree, like plant to 25 feet. The clear medium pink flowers are very abundant.

Victor - Two to three feet compact dwarf variety with deep red flowers.

Crepe Myrtles are truly a plant for everyone's yard. Their dependability and performance make Hampton Roads a summertime showcase of color. In the years ahead, Crepe Myrtles should become as standard in the landscape as azaleas. So, why not

United Way, Heart Assoc. working heart in hand

"A major step forward for the American Heart Association, the United Way and the residents of South Hampton Roads." That was the conclusion of Chairman Jamie Adair, after the United Way Board of Directors voted to include the Heart Association as a campaign partner, Thursday, July 11, in Norfolk.

"The Heart Association will benefit from the campaign success of the United Way. Instead of being competitors for contributions," said Adair, "the two organizations can now pull together to fund life-saving services to residents of Chesapeake, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Suffolk and Virginia Beach."

Unlike United Way member agencies, AHA - like the American Cancer Society - will have a special campaign relationship defined by mutual agreement. "Primarily, the United Way will solicit funds for AHA during the September 1 to November 15 time frame," said Adair, "allowing them to take advantage of United Way's unique position to solicit funds at the workplace - in business, industry and in the Combined Federal Campaign."

The inclusion of the Heart Association adds a prestigious national agency to the United Way family of service. Said Adair, "the Heart Association, through an improved campaign effort with the United Way, will be able to meet the service needs of our expanding population."

EOC gets two years of funding from feds

The Educational Opportunity Center (EOC) in Virginia Beach has been refunded by the U.S. Department of Education for a multi-year funding period from 1985-1988. The grant award for the 1985-1986 funding period totals $180,582. Matching funds will be contributed by member institutions of the Virginia Tidewater Consortium for Continuing Higher Education.

Since its inception in 1979, the EOC has provided free career counseling, academic advising, and counseling about financial aid assistance to over 16,000 persons.

During the 1985-1988 program years, the EOC will direct the majority of its efforts to counseling low-income and first generation college students concerning local career and educational opportunities. Agencies with similar client eligibility criteria are urged to contact EOC.

The EOC is based in Virginia Beach but makes its services available to residents of Chesapeake, Portsmouth, and Norfolk through satellite offices in those cities. Sun readers may make appointments for any EOC location by calling 463-4810 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. In September, office hours will be expanded until 6:30 p.m.

Rosenberg manages engineering firm

Arnold Ira Rosenberg, a Virginia Beach resident, has been named area manager of Parsons Brinckerhoff's Tidewater office, Norfolk, Va.

Rosenberg, who was named "Young Engineer of the Year" in 1984 by the Virginia Society of Professional Engineers, also serves as president of the Tidewater chapter of the society. He has lectured on professional ethics in modern-day consulting to the Tidewater and Peninsula chapters of the Virginia Society of Professional Engineers as well as the Engineers' Club of Richmond.

Since joining Parsons Brinckerhoff in 1983, Rosenberg's responsibilities have included the role of project manager for the Glenwood Park Drainage Study for the City of Norfolk; the North Beach Storm Drainage Project, Phase 3; and the design of the Oceanfront Transit Terminal for the Tidewater Transportation District Commission. He is also project coordinator for the design of a $30-million-level ship assembly facility at Newport News Shipbuilding as part of its $300 million expansion program.

Beach company gets contract for school

Duke & Associates, Inc., a Virginia Beach general contractor has been awarded a contract to construct Chesapeake's new Greenbrier Elementary School.

The announcement was made by R. Keith Hathaway, President of Duke. The building will be a one-story structure of masonry and steel construction with approximately 55,000-square-foot of floor space. The facility will contain a cafeteria, library, special education classrooms and classrooms for kindergarten through grade six. The site of the new school will be on Eden Way South in the Greenbrier subdivision.

Projected completion date is July 1986.

Shakespeare

Peggie MacArthur

Festival costumer pays attention to detail

By Cathy LeCompte
Editor

As the Shakespeare-by-the-Sea Festival nears, the activity in a tiny alcove above the Kempsville Recreation Center Theatre gets busy. That's where head costume designer Peggie MacArthur and her assistants are creating the period costumes the players will wear in both productions, "Twelfth Night" and "Richard III."

MacArthur thinks those items are very important.

"The details are what make a period costume," MacArthur said. "Where we put the lace or embroidery on a costume make it stand out."

The costumes for "Twelfth Night" will be from the Elizabethan period. MacArthur has designed them with the lively and comedic nature of the play in mind. The color scheme is bright with many of the costumes in vivid purples and pinks.

"Twelfth Night" is very colorful and full of fun," said MacArthur.

For "Richard III," MacArthur has designed more somber costumes to fit the mood of the play. She used darker colors and plush, rich fabrics for the clothing.

"It's very exciting doing the costuming this year, because the plays are so drastically different," MacArthur said. "It presents a great challenge."

MacArthur is the costume designer for all of the Parks and Recreation Department productions, including the dance performances they do. She has been with the department for eight years and has done all the Shakespeare festivals.

Her accomplished staff consists of Norma Jean Snead, Beverly Remian and Betty Trout. Snead and Remian are under contract for the Shakespeare festival and Trout is a part-time employee for Parks and Recreation. MacArthur says her staff works well together.

"We work very closely together," said MacArthur. "We do things alike."

The type of costumes that will be required for a certain play is a big consideration when the festival committee chooses the plays they will perform. MacArthur says some plays are ruled out when it is apparent that the costuming would be almost impossible. MacArthur looks at the budget she has to work with and decides if the costumes are too elaborate to

Art Camp students to exhibit summer works

"Prisms," an exhibit of artwork by students and instructors of the summer 1985 ArtCamp project at the Virginia Beach Arts Center at 18th Street and Arctic Avenue opened Friday, July 26, in the main galleries and will continue to be on view through Sunday, Aug. 18.

The public is invited to attend the festive reception for "Prisms," scheduled for 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 9.

In addition to the artwork by young artists ages 7 to 12 who participated in the seven-week program of creative art activities, works by the ten instructors will be on display. Special presentations of filmstrips, video art and creative movement will occur throughout the evening reception. Admission is free.

The ArtCamp project, now in its fourth season, offers a wide variety of art programs for children. This year's project began the week of June 24 and continues through August 9. Registration will continue through August 2.

Course offerings this year included such activities as the creation of video art, batik, jewelry-making, painting and drawing the human figure, "throwing" pottery on the wheel, creative movement, photography, and making cartoon filmstrips.

Four courses are offered each week throughout ArtCamp—two for 7-to-9-year-olds and two for 10-to-12-year-olds. The classes take place at the Arts Center studios from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. weekdays.

ArtCamp instructors are qualified professionals experienced in the special needs and interests of youngsters. This year's staff includes Susan Stevenson Garnett (video art) of Portsmouth, Paula Sheet-Minor (painting, mixed media), Everett Leo Swinson (basketry), Bill Humphreys (creative movement) of Norfolk, and Victor Frailing (photography, ceramics), James Francis Yax (painting), Donna Winchell (ceramics), Suzanne Stevens (painting, drawing), Meryl Ann Butler (painting, drawing fiber), and Carol Kron (batik, painting, jewelry), all of Virginia Beach.

Gallery hours are Mondays through Saturdays 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Sundays 1 to 4 p.m. Admission is free and open to the public.

For further information, Sun readers should contact the Virginia Beach Arts Center at 425-0000.

Raffle relieves African hunger

The Ceramic Design Association will sponsor a raffle to help feed the hungry in Africa. The "Prizes in Clay Show," a collection of the items to be raffled will be on display at the Countryside Gallery at the Countryside Shops located at 1985 Landstown Road in Virginia Beach, beginning Aug. 1 through Aug. 30.

Raffle tickets may be purchased at the show for $1. The drawing will be held, Aug. 31, 1985 at the Ceramic Designers Association's 2nd Annual Pottery Show at Town Point Park at Waterside in Norfolk.

summer. After the cutting of the multi-colored ribbon, we filed back out to the buses which then gave us a tour of the campus and then dropped us off at our individual classes.

I awoke to the sounds of the chorus members singing "Chapel of Love." I looked across the aisle and saw the drummers tapping away on their knees. In the background, "Oh What A Beautiful Morning" played. Beautiful? We were stuck in the middle of traffic in a suffocating bus because it was raining outside.

"I'm hot," cried one of the boys in the back, "open some windows."

"Don't do that, replied the bus driver, 'if they're mad enough, they'll throw things at us!'"

The windows were opened anyway. Then the bus turned into the lunchroom scene from "Fame." The dancers were getting pretty jumpy while the chorus members were singing tunes from "Grease" and the kids from drama and broadcasting were doing their monologues. People looked up from their cars and I sank into my seat.

"This is going to be a long ride," I was right.

After forty-five minutes, a mechanic fixed up the engine and drove us to the toll road where our driver changed places and started the last leg to Virginia Beach. It was a stop and go ride, where many times we had to pull to the side of the road and wait a while before moving on. Around two hours later, I was home.

A typical school day is like this: in the morning we have instructional courses on theory and history and things of that nature and in the afternoon, we put our talent to work by choosing specific classes that appeal to each individual. The art courses include: photography, welded sculpture, airbrush, acrylic painting, lithography and ceramics.

The time I like the most is lunchtime. At Web Center, you can hear soaps on the left, music down the hall and voices from the cafeteria. I walked down the hall and looked into the courtyard where there was music playing, guys skateboarding and even some kids dancing.

That's the one thing I've noticed: music is the common denominator at the Magnet School. Kids bring in walkmans, tape recorders, and even boom boxes and you can always find someone tapping their foot or humming a tune. Well, I didn't know anyone in the courtyard so I moved on to the game room. Multitudes of people were wired into video games while others, like myself, played one of the competitive games like ping pong or "fooball." Lunch is the time for all of us to relax and meet other students from the program and the college students as well.

Little Theater holds musical auditions

The Little Theater of Virginia Beach will hold auditions for Steven Sondheim's musical opera "Sweeney Todd" on Aug. 12 and 13 at 7:30 p.m. The production will be directed by Carl Gilmer.

"Sweeney Todd" which was first presented on Broadway and then made the transition to the New York City Opera calls for a large cast of males and females of all ages. Candidates should be prepared to sing a selection from a Broadway musical or an opera and should bring sheet music. An accompanist will be provided.

Benefit race set

The Tidewater Striders will sponsor a 5K run on Saturday, Aug. 10 at 7:30 a.m., beginning at 17th Street and Atlantic Avenue.

The race benefits the Virginia Beach Arts Center.

The entry fee is $6 if postmarked by Aug. 3, $8 after Aug. 3 and the day of the race. Registration begins at 6:30 a.m. on race day.

Age groups are Men: 12 and under, 13-19, 20-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-49, 50 and over. Women: 19 and under, 20-30, 31-40, 41-50 and 50 and over.

Prizes will be awarded to the top three in each age bracket. The unique awards will be original artworks, some used for door prizes that other race participants and viewers are eligible for.

For more information, call the Race Director, Michael Marks, at 425-0000.

when the interstate was being built. The society, whose purpose it is to protect, preserve and restore historical landmarks, rallied to try and stop the destruction of Upper Wolfsware. Other land near the house was acquired for the borrow pit and the house was saved.

The house has been open for about five years during the summer months. Approximately 100 people have visited this season. "Someday when we have more money we hope to have a full-time curator and leave the house open everyday," said McCaw.

The white brick plantation house was built by Thomas Walke III. The Walke family came to Virginia from Barbados in about 1660. The society believes Thomas Walke III was fairly wealthy, having many slaves, herds of cattle and a mill.

As they are giving a tour, the docents try to give the visitors an idea of what life was like during the 18th century in Virginia. By today's standards, the house is small, having only eight rooms. There is also a full basement and attic and eight fireplaces.

A long, wide hallway goes through the middle of the house and supplies a nice breeze, even on the hottest of days. It is believed that this hallway served as another room, because of the good ventilation. The 18th century family would eat meals there and read or play musical instruments in the cooler hallway instead of sitting in the stuffy side rooms.

Most of the furnishings in the house are donated by historical society members or others in the community. The house still has all the original wall and floor boards. Two paintings of descendants of the Walke hang in the parlor. Other paintings of some historical landmarks were done by Hank Pugh and line the hallway.

The grounds of Upper Wolfsware today is about three acres. It is believed that the Walke had about 7,000 acres with a mill and a store on their property.

It was named after the Wolfsware Creek where Thomas Walke probably had his mill. The creek was an off-chute of the Lynnhaven River and is no longer there. "In those days, land was everything," said McCaw.

The Princess Anne County Historical Society has 400 members, but McCaw hopes that the membership will increase.

"Our heritage is departing and we want to try and save it," McCaw said.

The society also has the Pembroke Manor House which they are trying to restore, but funding is the main drawback. The society gets funding from the dues of members, the $1 admission charged at Upper Wolfsware and some money from the City of Virginia Beach.

The present curators for Upper Wolfsware are Mr. and Mrs. Alan Taylor.

Latest research helps visually impaired kids

New research shows that children whose visual functions limit their ability to learn are also more likely to develop emotional problems, according to Virginia Beach optometrist Hal W. Breedlove, O.D.

Breedlove, attended a Washington, D.C. conference on vision where the research was released.

"A person's vision is instrumental in learning about and dealing with one's surroundings. In school, for example, the majority of classwork involves vision," said Breedlove.

"When there is an inability to use their vision efficiently and comfortably for tasks less than arm's length from their eyes, the quality of a child's school work will suffer, or they will make other visual adaptations as they attempt to overcome the visual stress." The poor vision will contribute to their failure to keep up in school. And when children fail, they find ways to compensate, to keep their feelings of self worth.

Those were the findings reported at the conference by North Carolina psychologist Gary Bachera, Ph.D., who studied the impact of learning-related vision problems of 200 children. The youngsters made drawings of themselves both before and after visual training to clear up their visual problems. "A standard psychological scale was used to count indicators of emotional problems, such as missing hands or feet, the completeness or omission of features and other characteristics," said Breedlove.

Joel Zaba, O.D., a Virginia optometrist who provided the visual care programming for the test group of children also learned:

- Nearsighted children had more indicators of emotional problems than farsighted children.

- Farsighted children were less likely to show a reduction of emotional indicators than nearsighted children following treatment of visual problems.

"The two found out that having to wear glasses didn't seem to provoke new emotional problems, which explodes a widely held belief," said Breedlove.

- The 200 test-group children with learning difficulties produced pre-treatment drawings with a total of 405 indicators of emotional problems. The control group produced drawings with only 79 indicators.

"In new drawings produced after visual training and the prescription of lenses to reduce the effort required for doing near-vision work (such as reading) the emotional indicators for the treated group dropped to 228, a decrease of 177."

"Many children with learning-related vision problems will do practically anything to avoid doing near vision work. They seldom experience any sustained visual demands, so they never have any visual complaints," said Breedlove.

But the vision problems can be identified by several signals:

- Poor attention span to any task that requires near vision.
- Holding reading material extremely close.
- Covering one eye while reading.
- Headaches after doing near vision work.
- Skipping words or lines while reading.
- They require a finger or marker to keep place while reading.

Judgement key to buying stocks

By Doris Mozley

Dana Witter Reynolds Inc.

Selecting stocks that will make buyers money is an art—not a science. Your broker will not be right all the time. But she should be right enough of the time to make you money. After all, making a profit is the bottom line. You should be able to trust her experience, research, and judgement. Remember though, it is your money and in the most fundamental way, preserving your nest egg is your responsibility. You should be as comfortable with your broker as you are with your family doctor. Three criteria must be observed in your search for competent investment advice:

1. Choose a firm which is a member of the New York Stock Exchange. Of course, there are non-member firms which are also good, but at least you know that if the firm is a member of the NY Exchange, it has met the highest standards including minimum capital requirements, annual surprise audits by independent accounting firms, and unannounced spot financial checks by the Exchange. In addition, you know that the member firm's employees have completed a minimum training period, passed a rigorous Exchange examination, and work at their jobs full-time.

2. Shop around as you would for any service so important to your ultimate well being. Ask friends, business acquaintances, certified public accountants or local bankers to recommend a broker.

3. Arrange an interview with the broker you are considering. Ask her for suitable investment recommendations based on your age, career situation, financial standing and any other relevant data. For example, what would be suitable for a young lawyer at 30 years of age with a high income with $25,000 in capital and what would be suitable for a 45-year-old school teacher with the same amount to invest would probably be very different.

Gas station robbery suspect wanted

Virginia Beach Crime Solvers is seeking information about an armed robbery that occurred June 26 at the BP Gas Station at 155 South Rosemont Road.

At 5 a.m. that Wednesday, the manager was doing paperwork in the station booth when he looked up and saw a man at the pay window pointing a handgun at him. The man then told the manager to "give me all the money." After receiving the cash the robber was turning to leave when the manager grabbed a portable fire extinguisher and threw it. It struck the thief in the back and knocked him to the ground. Part of the money was dropped at that time but the robber was able to get up and was last seen crossing Rosemont Road and running behind the Sun Building.

The suspect was described as a white male in his early 20's, short light brown hair, 5 feet 9 inches tall, and 150 pounds. He was clean shaven, had an earring in his left ear, and a neat appearance.

Anyone with information about this or any other robbery is asked to call Crime Solvers at 427-0000, and if an arrest is made, the caller will be eligible for a reward of up to $1,000.

Crime Solvers also pays cash for information about any crime, information leading to the arrest of wanted people or the recovery of drugs or stolen property.

Callers never have to reveal their identity when talking to Crime Solvers.

"Music of the People" folk concert set

On Wednesday, August 7, at 7 p.m. "Music of the People" will trace the history of American folk music from its rich European heritage to the present day. The performance will be held outside; participants may want to bring along blankets, chairs, etc. For more information on this performance, or the entire summer series of musical performances, please call the library at 464-9280.

Back to school program slated

A "Back to School Survival Skills" program will be held at the Oceanfront Library on Thursday, Aug. 8, at 7 p.m. Dorothy Hinman, director of adult services will cover skills that adults returning to school need to know—note-taking, studying, time management, coping with conflicting family and school expectations, etc.

Advance registration is necessary. To register, or learn more about this program, call the library at 428-4113.

Regency Trio to hold children's concert

The Regency Trio will perform a children's concert on Friday, Aug. 9 at 11 a.m. at the Oceanfront Library. The performance is sponsored by Young Audiences of Virginia, Inc. Children will play a make-your-own minuet game and learn the musical form rondo. For information, call the library at 428-4113.

"Up With People" is uplifting

By Heather Weyers

Special To The Sun
"Up With People," a group of singers, dancers and musicians representing 38 states and 22 foreign countries, performed recently at Little Creek Amphibious Base.

The cast is made up of young adults ranging in age from 18 to 25. "Up With People" has several groups that perform world-wide.

In the near future, two of the groups will be going to perform in China, while Cast E, which performed in Virginia Beach, will be traveling to Europe. When the groups travel, they stay with host families who volunteer to house a cast member during the stay.

As ambassadors of good will to all people, the members demonstrate more than musical talent when they visit. They all share an ability to communicate their philosophy of peace both on and off the stage.

The performance was full of energy, excitement and nostalgia. The show contained something that every generation could enjoy. The basic theme of world peace was emphasized throughout the entire show. And the feeling of warmth and love of the cast members radiated out to the audience and filled the auditorium with an atmosphere of unity.

One portion of the show dealt with looking back at the music and dance of previous eras. Through a series of melodies, the audience enjoyed the music of the big bands of the 1940's, ragtime, rock and roll of the 1950's, and contemporary rock of today.

The outstanding portion of the show was the international review, where groups performed songs and dances dressed in authentic costumes of the country they represented.

"Up With People" was an uplifting performance drawing audience and cast together. The opportunity to see these talented young people shouldn't be missed.

Mall holds

education day

An Education Day will be held on Saturday, Aug. 3 from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. at Center Court in Lynnhaven Mall. An education counselor will be available to discuss with military personnel and their families, educational benefits and opportunities, VA loans and classes offered on base.

The event is free and open to the public. Education Day will be held from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. For more information call 486-8000.

Quilters to meet

Virginia Beach quilters have learned that the Tidewater Quilter's Guild will meet on Monday, Aug. 5 at 7 p.m. at the Norfolk Botanical Gardens meeting room.

Another meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 13 at 10 a.m. at the same location will feature Louise Mancel discussing choosing quilting designs. For more information, call 481-3730.

Guide for campers

the field. More visual and appealing to use than the Sierra Club's Naturalist's Guide Series, the Audubon Society's field guides will be a boon to students, and to Virginia Beach families taking trips both local and distant.

You are in the forest. A beautiful bird flies by. You flip casually to plates 493-618. Ah yes, a purple gallinule. The slithering? A mere flick of the thumb to plates 439-444. Don't worry about the insect, swat it with the guide!

fit into that budget.

There are many costumes in storage from the other Shakespearean plays they have done. When they can, they pull costumes from storage and refurbish them for size. They might take a dress that was used in a play last year, add some lace or a different collar and give it a completely different look for this year's performance.

From her own small library of reference materials, MacArthur gets her ideas for the costumes. She has books with authentic drawings of dress during the Elizabethan period or whatever time frame they've decided on for the play.

In designing the details of the costumes, the collars, the ruffles, the items that make a costume unique, MacArthur and her staff get to test their creativity and ingenuity. For one of the lady's dresses in "Twelfth Night," they have made a beautiful, tall lace collar. The lace is from a petticoat and they used a wire coat-hanger to make it stand up.

"It will frame the actress' faced beautifully," said Remian.

There are 68 costumes in all for this year's festival. Only 10 of those will be rented, because they were too expensive to make. MacArthur and her assistants will have their hands full until festival time.

Museum offers chance to be crafty

Throughout the month of August, the Virginia Beach Maritime Museum will sponsor "Youth Craft Days at the Museum". All craft days are open to children 8 to 13 years of age and will begin at 11 p.m. and end at noon.

The Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach will demonstrate "Shell Art." The Children will learn how to make several gift items with shells.

On Aug. 29, "Scrimshaw" will be demonstrated by Linda Erickson, scrimshaw artist from Hampton whose work is now on display in the museum.

Folk arts festival planned

The 11th Folk Arts Festival will be held on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 3 and 4, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Princess Anne Park.

The festival features crafts people from all over the East Coast. Folk music and dance is also scheduled.

Admission and parking is free. In case of rain, the festival will be moved to the Kempsville Recreation Center, 800 Monmouth Lane. Further information is available by calling, 467-4884.
